Glancing Over Sport

By JOE DELARUNTY

THE DAY'S HIGHLIGHT

Seldom you hear of a selector of race horses picking seven straight winners for the betting public and also too in the daily double for good measure. Well, that's what "Shorty" did at the Willows track on Thursday afternoon. He had every horse down in front on his selection sheet along with the combination on the first and second races, which, of course, was the double. Despite the fact it was one of those days that most of the public chose came romping home, just try picking a full card of winners and see how long it will take you to click. . . . This afternoon's feature at the Oak Bay strip is the Navy, Army and Air Force Handicap and eight ponies are slated to go postward for the mile gallop. H. Rhythm, winner of the last two handicaps, is entered and will be packing top impost of 114 pounds. He has been really coming up the ground coming down that stretch lately and will most likely enter the Puck starting gate a favorite. The prediction department is going out on the limb and pick them to finish in this order: (1) Kilgus, (2) H. Rhythm, (3) Pudge, (4) Orange, (5) Can. Seattle, (6) Balmers, (7) Three, (8) L. Cardinals Expected
To Win Flag TodayPennant Race in National League Will End if St. Louis Defeats the Cubs

(By The Associated Press)

St. Louis Cardinals may clinch their second successive National League pennant today, but New York Yankees will have to wait at least until next Wednesday before they can turn the same trick in the American League.

Last night the Cardinals noosed out Chicago Cubs, 2-1, in ten innings to eliminate the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers from their last mathematical chance as the championship and St. Louis needs only to win one game of a double-header with Cincinnati Reds today to dispose of Cincinnati Reds, who lost last night.

The Dodgers, although in second place, fell out of the race a day ahead of Cincinnati because they had a game at Boston canceled.

The Yankees' chance to clinch their championship Sunday was smothered last night by Washington Senators, who snapped New York's nine-game winning streak while extending their own to seven.

The Yankees need a combination of five victories or five Washington defeats to clinch and since they are idle next Monday and Tuesday, cannot put it across before Wednesday. They also have an open date today and play the second-place Senators again Sunday in a double-header.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers were left dozy in the National League pennant race today as New York Giants scored four times in the seventh inning to carry off a 6-4 victory.

As a result the Dodgers were made subject to mathematical elimination as soon as St. Louis Cardinals win one more game.

The Cardinals, scheduled to play Chicago Cubs tonight, need at least another day to dispose of Cincinnati Reds, however.

All the Brooklyn runs today were packed into the second inning on two singles, two walks and a wild throw by Sid Gordon, the Giants' third baseman.

New York reclaimed one of these runs from Kirby Higbe in the third on a triple by Johnny Rucker and a single by Mickey Witke. Gordon singled another across in the sixth and the ball game blew up in the seventh.

Nap Reyes was safe on a fumble and Joe Kerr was hit by a pitched ball. Mel Ott came up to bat for Ken Chase, the Giants' starting hurler, and Les Webber replaced Higbe only to walk Ott and load the bases with none out. A force out and three singles quickly counted four runs.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17 (AP)—Max Butler won a pitcher's battle from Buckie Walters as Pittsburgh Pirates beat Cincinnati Reds here tonight, 1-0.

It was a tough one for Butler to lose as he allowed only four hits to Max's six.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Washington Senators pined New York Yankees' lead and at the same time strengthened their hold on second place in the American League by capturing their seventh straight triumph, 6-3. Buck Newsom held the Yanks throughout for his third in a row since he shifted from St. Louis to Washington.

Allie Reynolds fanned twelve batters and shut out Detroit Tigers with two singles until the final inning, but the Bengals tallied twice in the ninth on three safeties and an error to defeat Cleveland's Indians, 3-1.

A fly ball by Tony Cuccinello in the eighth inning drove Guy Curt-right home with the run, which gave Chicago White Sox a 2-1 American League victory over the Browns and ended a seven-game winning streak by the St. Louis team.

St. Leger Is Set Today

Straight Deal Is Newmarket Choice

By ALLAN NIGLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEWMARKET, England, Sept. 17 (CP)—The Bay Streak, that won the Derby, and the colt it beat by a head, likely will trot to the barrier as first and second favorites when the St. Leger pulls the curtain on the season's blue ribbon racing events tomorrow.

In pre-race betting, Straight Deal, which gave Hon. Dorothy Paget her first Derby triumph in years of striving, was a seven to two favorite for the St. Leger. Almost as close behind as in the Derby came Umiddadd, one of the Aga Khan's three entries, at five to one.

A filly, one of four in the field of fifteen for the classic, moved into third choice at fifteen to two. That was Tropical Sun, owned by Mrs. Catherine Macdonald-Buchanan, which placed third in last June's classic for fillies, the Oaks, and won an important plate race at Salisbury a couple of weeks ago.

Other fillies are Lord Derby's twenty to one, Herrington, Lord Roseberry's Ribbon and Why Hurry, owned by J. V. Rank.

Summer favorite for the Fall classic, Ribbon's odds lengthened to nine to one after she placed fourth and last to the winning Umiddadd in the open Whelpstead Stakes at Newmarket, the end of last month. Ribbon was second in the Oaks.

Hard-riding Tommy Carey will be up on Straight Deal in the Leger, just as he was in the Derby, and that's a big factor in the advance of the colt to favorite. Carey, riding Straight Deal in the Waltham, completed a run of five victories in the day's seven races and set up an Ascot record. Earlier he had five first-placers at a one-day Windsor meet.

That Ascot sweep gave Carey a total of thirty-seven winners this season and left him five behind Gordon Richards, Britain's perennial jockey champion.

More Conservation Of Meat Is Needed
WINNIPEG, Sept. 17 (CP)—Ration administrators of meat in Western Canada have had few "black market" worries, said J. E. Maxwell, Ottawa, survey officer, Ration Administration, here today.

He said there was no "extensive" black market operations in the West, but there was a definite need for further conservation of meat.

Mr. Maxwell frowned on restaurant "meat eaters" who refuse the regular menu and order steaks and chops.

"This must be discouraged," he said.

Hunters Given
The Green Light
For the Week-End

WEEK-END hunters have the blessing of Chief Forester C. D. Orchard, who, on Friday, was able to report that weather conditions had resulted in an appreciable lessening of danger from forest fires.

"There will be no closure on traveling activities this week-end," Mr. Orchard claimed, expressing the belief that the letup in fire hazard would continue.

He recalled that in some other years it had been necessary not only to restrict hunters and others who use the woods extensively, but also to close down certain industries that proved dangerous to timber stands.

But they didn't go. Except Mom, who went on alone. There were no suitable quarters for the dog. Bill was stricken. Pooch's tail drooped wearily. Mom was miserable, too.

Constable Hall listened sympathetically. "Well," sighed Mom, "I'll have to send Bill back with the dog, but I must go on, and I don't know where to leave them until boat time."

"With me, if you like, ma'am," Hall volunteered. "I'll find a place downtown for the dog, and the lad can come home with me," and so it was arranged. Mom going on alone and Bill and Pooch making the most of a sombre situation.

Hours later, by dint of telephoning here and there, a new deal was made. Bill didn't take the midnight boat. Instead, he spent the night with Constable Hall. Means were found of getting Pooch up to Jordan River, and so, though traveling separately, Mom and Bill and Pooch eventually reached their common destination.

Bill thinks pretty well of the city police. Mom thinks so, too, and Pooch's tail is up again and wagging joyously.

Six Miners Saved After Twelve Hours

STARLAN, Ky., Sept. 17 (AP)—Six coal-miners emerged alive last night from Three Point Mine after a twelve-hour entombment caused by an explosion that dealt sudden death to their twelve companions.

The mine early this morning yielded the bodies of the dead, three mangled bodies being discovered at one tunnel entrance and nine others lying closely together not many feet away.

The three were found first more than a mile from the main mine entrance. Beyond this group, almost a mile farther back were the six men, who barricaded themselves against the deadly black damp in their fight for life.

The six survivors came out on motor trucks, smiling broadly in appreciation for their rescue by crews of tireless miners who worked the clock around to fight through the poison gases to their cell.

LONDON (CP)—C. R. Asile, Deputy Prime Minister, said "at the opening of a Netherlands social centre that the "growing savagery of the Germans in Holland above they are becoming increasingly aware the war is lost."

Bill and Pooch
Move on Again

Mom and Bill and Pooch, the dog, were Jordan River bound. They'd had a grand trip from Vancouver, and Bill, thirteen, was eager for the ride up-Island.

"Come on Pooch, let's go!"

But they didn't go. Except Mom, who went on alone. There were no suitable quarters for the dog. Bill was stricken. Pooch's tail drooped wearily. Mom was miserable, too.

Constable Hall listened sympathetically. "Well," sighed Mom, "I'll have to send Bill back with the dog, but I must go on, and I don't know where to leave them until boat time."

Raise $3,006 in Milk Fund Drive

The sum of $3,006.09 was raised in the Milk for Britain envelope drive, sponsored by the Kinmen Club and supported by the dairywomen and distributors of Greater Victoria. It was announced Friday by C. H. Williams, secretary-manager of the South Vancouver Island Dairywomen's Association.

Of this sum, $2,078.92 was raised through the dairywomen's association, the balance of $927.17 being contributed through the distributors' group.

Mr. Williams expressed gratitude at the total collected, and extended thanks to all who had contributed and assisted in any way to make the drive such a success.

Experiment in Logging Salvage Proves Success

Canada's increasing shortage of pulpwood has been relieved to the tune of more than 100,000 cords of wood that have been salvaged this summer from logging debris in the Ladysmith district of Vancouver Island, according to information received from C. D. Orchard, chief forester of the province.

The wood has been taken as an experiment in the use of logged-off lands, and was handled by the Comox Logging & Railroad Company, Ltd., for the Powell River Company, Ltd., with a view to utilizing every last sliver of British Columbia's timber resources.

Work of stripping the debris started last spring following an agreement entered into between the Provincial Government and the two companies, and at the end of a six-month period it was estimated that more than 50,000 cubic feet of logging leftovers had been accumulated.

The demonstration is being carried out under supervision and technical direction of the Provincial Forestry Department, and stress is laid on the fact that at this time the undertaking is purely experimental.

If successful, it is regarded as a potential source of income for farmers and settlers in logged-over areas who will be able to add considerably to their funds by cutting up the logs left by logging operations and hauling the wood to the roadside to be picked up by trucks.

Closed Shop Refused

Unconvinced by the evidence submitted by employees of Buckenfield's Limited, Rogers Street Plant, Vancouver, that the union shop sought for should be made compulsory, a three-man board of arbitration, headed by G. R. McQueen, on Friday refused to approve an agreement drawn up between Buckenfield's Limited and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, Feed and Seed Division 223.

While turning down the application for a closed shop, the arbitration board, comprising also R. O. Campney and W. A. Tuttle, recommended a twelve-part agreement to replace the thirteen-part one set forth by the employees, subject to approval of the Regional War Labor Board.

R. H. Tupper was counsel for the employer during negotiations which opened July 27, and C. L. Murray represented the employees, and although the closed shop principle was vetoed by the board, there were many clauses in the employees' agreement that were unanimously approved and contained in the agreement set forth by the arbitrators.

Draws Prison Term

Andrew Murray Dahl, represented by W. A. Brethour, was found guilty Friday in city police court on a charge of possessing a registration certificate on September 2 issued to another person, and received a sentence of three months in prison.

He also received a concurrent term of one month in prison for attempting to purchase liquor with another person's permit. A charge of vagrancy against the accused was withdrawn. Evidence was given by Constables William Andrews and Thomas Banister.

School Children Give R.A.F. Hero Enthusiastic Ovation

Victoria children gave vent to their admiration of Wing Cmdr. Guy P. Gibson, V.O., D.S.O., and Bar, D.F.C. and Bar, at his Air Cadet inspection on Friday afternoon at the Parliament Buildings by literally swarming all over him.

The ceremony had concluded, and he was on his way to his car with Air Commodore Earle L. MacLeod, R.C.A.F., when one of the hundreds of school children witnessing the ceremony ran up to him. The first lad was followed by two others, then ten more, until finally the young bomber pilot was trapped and surrounded.

He had a broad smile for all as, with the assistance of air force officers, he eventually made his way through the crowd of enthusiastic boys and girls to his car. He gave them all another wave and an infectious grin as he drove away.

Dignity and precision marked the actual ceremony at 3 p.m. The boys of the Greater Victoria Air Cadet Wing, led by their own band, marched to the driveway in front of the main entrance and opened the ranks for inspection by Wing Cmdr. Gibson, who was given hearty applause as he arrived.

Airman Returns Home to Duncan With Leg Wounds

Awarded the D.F.M. following heroic action on a mine-laying raid over the North Sea-Frisians early this year, Sgt. Arthur A. Mellin returned on Friday to his home in Duncan, where he is staying with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hawden, Lakes Road, Duncan.

Although he received serious wounds in his left leg, from which he has not yet recovered, Sgt. Mellin assisted in bringing a shot-riddled plane safely to its home base after the raid.

He received great praise from the pilot, Sgt. Pilot J. McIntosh, of Medicine Hat, Alta., who told how, despite his wounds, Mellin took over part of the flight engineer's job, then returned to his navigator's table and worked on the course successfully to East Anglia.

"He stayed at his post until the bomber was about to land and then he lost consciousness," the pilot stated. "It was a marvellous piece of work and he deserves all the credit in the world."

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Mellin, of Duncan, and a brother of Mrs. G. D. Cree, Lake Cowichan, he was educated at Duncan Grammar School, Shawnigan Lake School and Duncan High School.

Previous to enlistment, he was employed by the Bank of Commerce at Prince Rupert.

In addition to this activity, the Kinmen, working with the I.O.D.E., have sent more than 2,000,000 books and magazines to the armed forces overseas, and provided also an abundance of reading matter for those who are stationed in Canada.

"but, my dear, did you notice her CHESTERFIELD?"

I used to think her living-room looked rather dull and "frumpy," but that gorgeous new Chesterfield certainly did things to THAT room. Talk about "distinguished!" I never remember seeing another in Victoria like it. It was finished in the most scrumptious silk brocade. She said she got it at Fletcher's and I'm just going to "talk turkey" to John and see if I can't get one something like it. Yes, she said

Victoria College Opens With 189 Eager Students

Victoria College threw open its doors on Friday to 189 eager students, eighty-eight girls and 101 boys who are beginning the serious business of training for their life work. For them school is over; there will be a definite purpose and not a little effort behind what they absorb now.

Forty-one of these were second-year students soberly conscious of the great loss their college had suffered in the death of the late Prof. P. H. Elliott, to whom Prof. E. S. Farr, vice-principal, paid generous tribute at the morning assembly of all students and teachers.

Professor Elliott, he said, had played a major part in the development of the college, and his death was an irreparable loss, but he added, "the lasting impression of his spirit upon generations of students would endure."

Professor Harry Mickman spoke of the functions of the students' guidance faculty; Dr. William Robbins discussed the courses offered, and Professor J. A. Cunningham described the organization of the college.

Donald Holmes, president of the Students' Council, introduced the amended constitution, and later Captain R. T. Wallace explained C.O.T.C. arrangements to students who contemplate joining, while C. O. Gordon, Fields and Phil. L. P. C. Routley spoke of the University Air Training Corps. "This is the first year men at the college have been given the opportunity of joining one of these corps."

Sgt. Major Firbank will assist in the C.O.T.C. plan, and Pte. Sgt. Thompson in the Air Training Corps.

Professor Farr is acting vice-principal this year and W. H. Hughes has been added to the teaching staff to direct the physical and physics A courses. Only one woman, Miss H. Ruth Humphreys, who teaches English, is on the staff.

Seeks Plans for Gulf Air Service

R. W. Mayhew, M.P., has asked Canadian Pacific Air Lines for a statement on future plans for the service between Victoria and Vancouver, according to a letter received at the City Hall on Friday. The City Council recently asked the Member of Parliament to find out if the Board of Transport Commissioners would grant Trans-Canada Airways permission to carry passengers between Victoria and Vancouver.

Mr. Mayhew stated the three points involved in the Gulf service were better planes, more convenient landing and embarkation points and more reasonable rates.

"If these are not taken care of by Canadian Pacific Air Lines, I think they would be the opportune time to approach the Board of Transport Commissioners for revision of the order," Mr. Mayhew wrote.

The commissioners declined to grant Trans-Canada Airways permission to carry passengers between Victoria and Vancouver.

Enlist in R.C.A.F.

Among recruits recently enlisted in the R.C.A.F. through No. 1 Recruiting Centre, Vancouver, were W. T. Lafrantz, Box 668, Victoria, and F. M. Forsyth, Chemainus.

RED CHEVRONS

The annual meeting of the Red Chevron Association will be held on November 10 at a time and place to be arranged later.

Her Headset Is Her Badge of Service

Her flying fingers do their part for Victory

"No one," writes George Matthew Adams, American editor, "is doing a more useful and efficient task than the telephone operator at her station at the switchboard. And there are thousands and thousands of them."

"Tact, diplomacy, patience, self-control and a cheerful frame of mind are essential. These thousands of telephone operators everywhere are doing a wonderful service in helping to win this war."

"ALL CIRCUITS ARE BUSY. I WILL CALL YOU."

Long-distance operators are handling a record-breaking load of calls brought about by the war, and during the busiest hours of the day, calls between certain points may be delayed owing to all circuits being busy. It is then that the operator will use the phrase, "All circuits are busy. I will call you." War-time regulations designed to conserve materials and manpower make it impossible for us to add more circuits, and some circuits have been set aside for the exclusive use of the armed forces.

Soviets Take 733 Towns in Pursuit Of Fleeing Nazis

Drive to Within Thirty-Seven Miles of Dnieper River Bend

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Soviet troops smashed to within thirty-seven miles of Dnieperpetrovsk, boulder dam of the Dnieper River bend, with the capture of the railway junction of Pavlograd, and swept closer to imperilled Kiev with gains on the north and east, Moscow announced tonight.

A communique reported 6,700 Germans were killed, 2,000 wounded and 500 captured in Saturday's widespread advances. The Russian columns were reported within forty-four miles of Kiev, the capital of the Ukraine, which was threatened from several directions.

The drive on Kiev reached close to the middle Dnieper River station along the Kiev-Nizhny railway. Northeast of Kiev the important town of Chernigov came within Soviet artillery range as Vihli, six miles to the east, was captured and twenty-six other towns overrun. Thus the Russians were eighty miles north of Kiev and closing in on the highway linking that city and Chernigov.

Southeast of Kiev the Russian threat was more distant, but a surprise dash which swamped a Nazi rear guard resulted in a twelve-mile Red Army advance that cut the Kiev-Poltava railway at Mirogrod, 135 miles from Kiev and fifty miles northwest of Poltava.

A total of 733 towns and villages were captured, said the Moscow communique recorded by the Soviet monitor, in an unchecked advance in almost every sector of the 600-mile front toward Smolensk, Rostov, Gomel, Chernigov, Poltava, Zaporozhe, Melitopol and in the Caucasus.

The communique told of these triumphs amid a chorus of pessimistic German admissions relayed from Stockholm, Madrid and even Berlin itself.

Stockholm reports said Germany was withdrawing elite troops from the Russian front to reinforce Italy and retreating to save its men for fighting on other fronts. Madrid suggested the Germans might abandon their Russian campaign and fall back 620 miles to the Polish frontier. In Berlin, Capt. Ludwig Serotius, German radio commentator, said frankly that the Germans were retreating in Russia to spare their forces and "it is not yet clear where

Nazis Hard Pressed to Wage War

Economic Front Feels Allies' Strong Blows

LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Germany, encircled by hostile countries, littered with rubble and devastated by bombs and fires, is feeling on the economic front, the effect of four years of war.

Official and unofficial evidence shows that Germany's war-making potential has been hit a hard blow right down the line—in raw materials, substitutes, agriculture, industry, manpower and transport.

Those who make a close study of reports from Germany hazard no official guess on just what effect this economic pressure will have on the length of the war. But it will help shorten it.

Will Modify U.S. Dimout

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18 (AP)—The army on the West Coast, in so far as possible, will adopt a "hands-off" policy in regard to civilian affairs, and a modification, at least, of some restrictions now in effect is assured, Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, new chief of the Western Defense Command, said today.

His statement came at his first press conference following his succession to Lieut. Gen. John L. Dewitt as ranking military officer on the Pacific Slope. He said a proclamation regarding civilians would be forthcoming within ten days.

Regarding the more pertinent subjects, General Emmons had this to say: "Dimouts—Cities behind the mountains will be allowed more light; some dimout zones will be eliminated; there will be changes in headlight requirements for cars—we are losing more than we are gaining by too extensive restrictions on lighting."

Assemblies—The rule against crowds of more than 5,000 may be modified.

Union Musicians to Make Some Records

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—The ban for thirteen months has prohibited union musicians from making recordings or electrical transcriptions was partially lifted today, James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, announced.

Members of the A.F.M. will be permitted, effective today, to make recordings and electrical transcriptions for Decca Records, Inc., and World Broadcasting System, Inc., respectively, Petrillo said at a press conference.

U.S. Officers in Daring Visit To Rome Under Eyes of Nazis

WITH GEN. DWIGHT EISENHOWER AT AN ADVANCED ALLIED COMMAND POST, Sept. 17 (Delayed) (AP)—It was disclosed today that two high-ranking American officers made a daring visit to Rome under the eyes of the Germans only a few hours before our invasion of Salerno and returned safely after conferring with Marshal Pietro Badoglio and Italian military commanders.

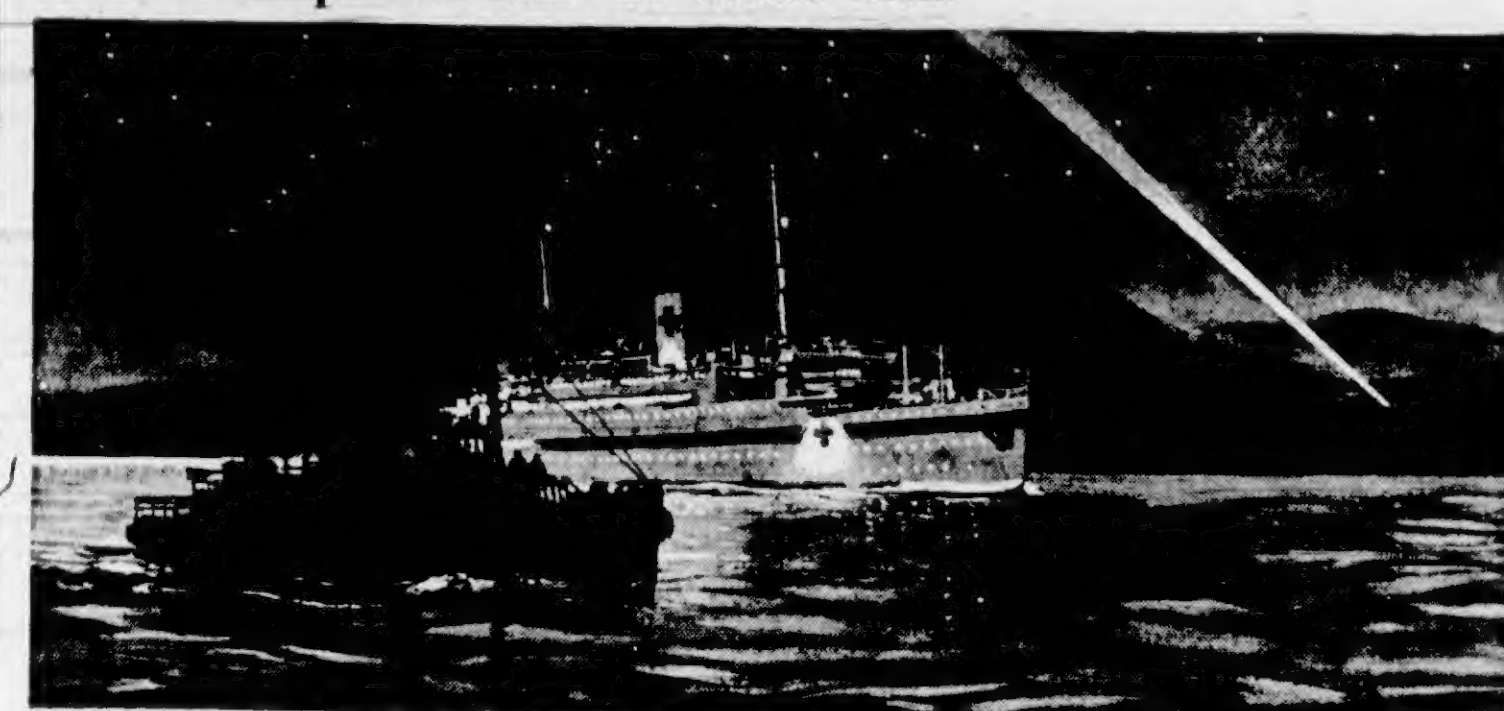

The two officers went into the Italian capital wearing American army uniforms, minus caps, and spent twenty hours in the most important military discussions. Most of the time they traveled in a car, frequently passing within a few feet of German soldiers.

The exact nature of their mission was not disclosed.

They obtained vital information which has affected the whole course of events since the Italian armistice announcement.

The officers, who voluntarily carried out their dangerous assignment in the full knowledge that discovery would have meant certain execution by the Germans, were Brig. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, forty-two-year-old West Point graduate, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., and Col. William Tucker Gardner, fifty-three, a former Governor of Maine.

One of the Ships That Sail the Oceans Alone

Along among ships of belligerent nations, hospital ships may sail the sea unconvoyed and unarmed; and the wounded from the A.E.F. in the Battle of Europe are being ferried quickly across the Atlantic to the United States in ships like this one, sketched as it prepared to sail from an unidentified war port to its home destination. The small craft in the foreground took the wounded men from shore to the hospital ship, a 16,000-ton former luxury liner. Under the Geneva International Convention, hospital ships must be absolutely unarmed. The hull must be white, with a broad red or green band, and with a Red Cross symbol also painted on the side.

Raid on Modane Cripples Lines

BERNE, Sept. 18 (AP)—A dispatch from Chambery, France, to The Tribune de Geneve said today that the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. Thursday night bombing of Modane, railway junction on the Italian-French border, left the city's railroad yards a shambles.

The bombing, coupled with sabotage of the Mont Cenis railway tunnel by Italian troops, was expected to halt traffic over the important rail link with Turin for seven to eight months, the dispatch said.

Will Hit at Japan's Heart Within Year

Maj. Gen. Johnson Makes Prediction

AN ALUTIAN BASE, Alaska, Sept. 18 (AP)—Major Gen. Davenport Johnson assumed command of the United States Army Eleventh Air Force today and predicted that the United States will "hit the hitting regularly" at the heart of Japan by air.

General Johnson, a first Great War flying comrade of the late Major Gen. Billy Mitchell, added that when the time came the Eleventh Air Force would be ready to address the air war to Japan along the open northern route, probably from a number of points in the Aleutians.

"Any way we do it, we must have a lot of force," he said, because "it will be a long war."

At headquarters, after assuming command, the fifty-three-year-old general recalled the concern which swept the United States and particularly the Pacific Coast when the Japanese occupied Attu and Kiska.

"Now," he continued, "the shoe is on the other foot. We have driven them from the Aleutians. We are doing the threatening."

"The recapture of the islands not only inflicted heavy damage, but has forced Japan to shift strength from the South Pacific to the north to defend itself."

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 18 (AP)—Sirens screaming, two police cars sped to investigate the report a crushed and bloody body was lying in the street. They found a dummy splattered with paint.

Thirty-Seven Japanese Craft Destroyed When 200 U.S. Planes Attack

Enemy Bases on Bougainville Island in the Solomons Blasted—Ballale Airdrome Ruined

SOUTH PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 19 (Sunday) (AP)—More than 200 United States planes struck Wednesday at Japanese bases on Bougainville Island in the Solomons, destroying thirty-seven enemy planes in a raid which a spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey said today may have made the airdrome at Ballale temporarily unusable.

Only six United States fighters and none of the big bombers participating were lost, the spokesman announced. The heavy raids are continuing, he said, but detailed reports have not yet been received.

The air base at Banate was hit Wednesday by more than 100 Dauntless dive-bombers, Avenger torpedo bombers and fighters, which dropped forty tons of explosives and strafed the entire area.

General Douglas MacArthur's communique issued at Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific listed only twenty enemy planes destroyed in the Bougainville raids Wednesday, and only three American fighters lost. The spokesman at Admiral Halsey's South Pacific headquarters evidently based his announcement on later information.

MacArthur's communique reported that bombers "of all categories" meaning Liberator heavy bombers, Mitchell medium bombers, Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive-bombers "struck twice Wednesday under a screen of fighters at the Kahili and Ballale airdromes in the vicinity of Southern Bougainville. Fifty enemy planes challenged them."

Only the day before, more than

Payment by Government of Family Allowances Possible

(Special to The Colonist) OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Cabinet Council has under the "most serious consideration" a family allowance plan which it is hoped, according to Government spokesmen, will be a bar for inflation.

The scheme, if it is adopted, would mean that an allowance of from $6 to $9 per month would be paid for each dependent child. The move is designed to meet recommendations in the majority report of the National War Labor Board, which recently conducted an exhaustive inquiry into wage conditions and labor relations in Canada.

Mr. Justice C. P. McTear, board chairman, and Leon Lalonde, board member, have joined together in a majority report, recommending wage increase rates for workers of lower incomes. Beyond meeting the demands of those in the sub-normal wage categories, the majority report does not go much further, except a recognition that in meritorious cases consideration should be given. The independent report of J. L. Cohen, since dismissed as labor's representative on the board, recommends a wage increase "across the board" irrespective of high or low income brackets. It is understood. Findings of the board are expected to be made public in ten days.

The family allowance plan is uppermost in Cabinet discussions now as a means of increasing income.

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southern Co.)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Germans are preparing to withdraw from the Salerno bridgehead and the main part of the British Eighth Army from the south has now linked up with the hard-pressed Fifth Army. All Nazi efforts to break through to the beaches have been foiled.

Each enemy withdrawal is preceded by an attack, presumably, says The Times correspondent, to give time to remove supply dumps in the rear. At least two German divisions were diverted from what would have been the Eighth Army front by the Salerno landings.

A British force had now advanced several miles into the hills and captured three towns. The second phase of the battle has ended, says The Times military correspondent, that of consolidating the bridgehead and landing supplies.

The next phase will be an attack on the opposing forces, to be followed by an advance towards the main objectives. It is probable the present German retreats are due to a shortage of ammunition for armored units. The Times correspondent thinks there is grim fighting ahead before an advance on Naples can be undertaken.

As part of the campaign to prevent Nazi reinforcements and equipment from reaching Northern Italy from France the R.A.F. has blown up viaducts and switch-yards at Modane in Southern France. Two railway links, one through the Mont Cenis tunnel and the other along the Riviera coast, have thus been destroyed.

The withdrawal of German troops

Critical of U.S.

MOSCOW, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda commented caustically today on American politics and preparations for next year's Presidential election. "Although the United States is at war, the electoral campaign is again starting early," it asserted. "The struggle of interests connected with the election is already obvious in Washington."

"Although America has been fighting for more than eighteen months, the realization of the fact that America must mobilize all its strength for the struggle against the mortal enemy has not penetrated to the same extent among various strata of the American people."

Victory at Salerno Opens a New Phase Of Fight for Italy

Bridgehead Now Full Battlefront— Naval Units Seize Three Islands

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 18 (AP)—Allied naval units have opened a new phase in the battle for Italy by seizing three more islands commanding the immediate sea approaches to the great port of Naples, headquarters announced today as Allied ground troops emerged victorious in the bloody fighting at Salerno. A special communique disclosed the occupation of Ischia, sixteen miles southwest of Naples, only a few hours after the regular war bulletin from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced the seizure of two other islands off the northern spur of the Bay of Naples.

Ischia was taken Thursday, one day after the occupation of Ponza, sixty-five miles west of Naples, and of Procida, twelve miles southwest of Naples and only two miles from the northern land arm of the bay.

Ischia, largest of the four square miles and is only seven miles from the nearest mainland coast.

Berlin broadcast an announcement that the Germans had occupied the island of Elba, Napoleon's first home in exile, thirty-six miles east of Corsica and eight miles from the Italian coast. Seven thousand Italian troops were said by the Nazis to have surrendered there.

Allied armies emerged victors in the battle of Salerno—first great engagement with Hitler's legions for the command of Europe—because of an abundance of grim courage on the part of the Allied troops.

Chaos and Misery in Italy Now

Food Short, Savage Fights With Nazis

BERNE, September 17 (AP)—The German secret police went into full-speed operation in Italy today with an order imposing death on all Italians caught hiding arms or molesting or stealing military equipment.

The death decree was published throughout occupied Italy—the best indication thus far of the underground resistance the Nazis expect to encounter there and the ruthlessness with which they are determined to fight it.

The Nazi pattern was the same as that first seen in Poland and later used with clocklike precision in Norway, the Low Countries, France and Russia—conscription of labor, death to saboteurs and a command to the country's army to appear for surrender or induction.

In Italy, however, the Germans have stepped up the pattern, for here they are acting against a former ally, and the bitterness shown by the Nazi press toward Premier Badoglio's capitulation has not been softened by the release of

Chiang Opens New Session

CHUNGKING, Sept. 18 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, making his first public appearance as President of China, called today for the co-operation of his country and her Allies in an "all-front" offensive and declared that the surrender of the Italian fleet "determines Japan's ultimate doom" through a shift of naval forces.

The generalissimo opened the fourth plenary session of the People's Political Council and pledged the Chinese to fight until Manchuria is recovered.

Reiterating a statement of 1941, Chiang said: "Our sacred resistance will not end until the lost territory in our northeast is fully recovered and the liberty of our fellow-countrymen there regained."

Allied Planes Smash Scores Of Enemy Aircraft in Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 18 (AP)—Every indication that the Germans mean to defend each foot of ground in Italy could be seen in the tactics of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring, but their tremendous weakness in the air makes their defeat inevitable.

Four-engine Flying Fortresses and medium Mitchells and Mustangs struck again at German air power yesterday, destroying scores of enemy fighters and bombers on the ground in surprise attacks on airfields near Rome, but encountered no opposition in the air.

It was disclosed officially that American P-40 Warhawks and R.A.F. Spitfires now are operating from mainland bases established after the landing of the Fifth Army at Salerno.

Flying Fortresses hit two airdromes at Campino and dumped hundreds of bombs on a group of Focke-Wulf long-range bombers. Twin-engine Mitchells and Mustangs, attacking the Pratella di Mare field, caused heavy destruction among more than 100 grounded aircraft.

Seattle Liquor Stores Cleaned

SEATTLE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Crowds that overflowed into the streets and the sidewalks outside jammed around Seattle liquor stores today as they began selling whisky at noon.

At the Columbia district store, estimated by liquor store officials to have had the heaviest run, more than 500 were unable to get into the place after it opened.

So heavy was the selling that a number of the stores were cleared of whisky stocks within two hours. Most stores split stock into three batches—to go on sale at opening, in mid-afternoon and in the evening—to give workers on all shifts a chance to purchase.

To Live on Raft Until Quota Made

Seven Men Stage Stunt at Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 18 (AP)—Seven husky workers, picked for weather resistance, were set adrift on the Willamette River today on the cramped quarters on a life raft.

Carefully weighed in and crammed with advice from the city health officer, the men vowed to live in shipwreck conditions until Oregon climbs to its $104,000,000 War Bond quota.

Crowded onto the raft with them was a fifteen-gallon keg of water, and the same scanty supply of food concentrates on which America's sailors live when their ships are torpedoed from under them.

The raft was moored sixty-five feet from Portland's Invasion Exposition and for a $150 bond, the price of admission, visitors may watch shipwreck life at first hand. A physician will board the raft daily, to check the men's health.

The raft-sitters—six shipyard workers and one swimming instructor—began the grueling test cheerfully. Friends announced that they would work double shifts in the shipyard one for themselves and not for the marooned workers—so that the raft-sitters would lose no pay checks.

As the men boarded their raft, Oregon's Bond sales total stood at $37,856,063.

Policing Problem

SEATTLE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Police Chief Herbert Kinney today asked the City Council to appropriate $50,000 for the training of Seattle police officers.

The chief explained that 450 new patrolmen had been put to work without adequate training and he a day. However, he explained, their services were so badly needed they could not be spared from regular work and would have to be trained overtime and paid for it.

Victoria Yard Launches New Frigate for Canadian Navy

H.M.C.S. Orkney, 300-foot frigate of a new design claimed to produce the most effective anti-submarine weapon yet devised, took to the water from Yarrow's No. 2 yard on Saturday at 6 p.m. following an impressive ceremony of interest from coast to coast.

The ship was one of twelve launched in ports from Halifax to Victoria on Saturday.

The long, narrow, Victoria-built vessel was christened by Mrs. J. Sparrow, who came to Victoria directly from Yorkton, Sask., to sponsor the craft. She has a son in the Royal Canadian Navy. Gay with naval pennants, and painted with a dark red, undercoat, the ship slid gracefully down the ways to the accompaniment of the R.C.N. band's playing of "Rule Britannia" and "Hearts of Oak," and the cheers and applause of invited guests and workmen of the yard.

NAVAL CHAPLAINS GIVE BLESSING

Clergymen who blessed the ship and the 118 officers and men to be chosen to sail in her were Rev. John Furlong, senior Protestant chaplain of the Pacific Coast; Rev. G. L. Gillard, assistant senior Protestant chaplain, Pacific Coast; and Rev. F. A. Wood, senior Roman Catholic chaplain, Pacific Coast. Lt. Gillard led the singing of a hymn, and Lt. Furlong said prayers, followed by the National Anthem.

In a brief address prior to the launching, Norman Yarrow, mentioned the pride his firm and employees took in building ships for the navy, and the fact that H.M.C.S. Orkney was the eleventh frigate to be launched at the yard since last November.

"It has been announced that there is to be some curtailment in the production of cargo vessels, but there is to be no reduction in the production of naval craft such as the ships we are building," he said. "In fact, we are being continually urged to increase our production."

SATISFIED WITH CRAFT PRODUCED

He read a congratulatory telegram from the director-general of naval shipbuilding, adding that he is satisfied that there is "no one on this continent that is turning out finer fighting craft than we are."

He expressed the hope that the Government will continue naval shipbuilding to maintain the Canadian Navy and at the same time retain in employment those who are now skilled in the work.

Guests invited to the launching were Hon. John Hart and Mrs. Hart; R. W. Mayhew, M.P., and Mrs. Mayhew; Mayor and Mrs. Andrew McGavin; Reeves and Mrs. Alex Lockley; Capt. Massey Golden, D.S.C., R.C.N.; Engineer Capt. A. D. M. Curry, R.C.N.; Mrs. E. B. Page, Yorkton, and several former residents of Yorkton now living in Victoria.

Another group invited included Mr. Justice J. D. Hyndman, Ottawa, chairman of the War Contracts Disposition Board, and members of his party.

Chaos in Italy

Benito Mussolini, whose whereabouts still are a mystery. There is yet no strong indication of sufficient sabotage within Italy to be of great assistance to the Allies.

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Disorder and misery on a scale not seen since the fall of France were reported in Italy tonight as the Germans sought to kick their beaten allies back to an unwelcome partnership with them.

But the Italians were fighting back—in increasing numbers it appeared. They were reported ripping up German communications between Northern and Central Italy at a time when the German command most urgently needed them. At some points in the North they were said to be standing against the Nazis and shooting it out.

A variety of accounts from neutral and Allied sources pictured this as part of the chaos in Italy.

1. No food received for days in Rome. No normal activity resumed in the city for more than a week after it had gone under Nazi "protection." The Germans are being compelled to bring in still more troops.

2. The Vatican ringed about and virtually cut off from the outer world by Nazi troops. Pope Pius XII was reported in neutral Stockholm dispatches to have strongly protested his status as a virtual prisoner as well as the treatment of the people in general. The same dispatches reported that the holy father had refused twice to see the German commander, Field Marshal Gen. Albert von Kesselring, insisting that the Germans must first evacuate Rome and thus make good Hitler's promise that his soldiers would remain outside the city.

The German news agency, D.N.B., claimed, however, that Luigi Cardinal Magliana, secretary of state, had received the German ambassador.

3. Savage fighting between German and Italian troops along the Brenner Pass railroad line, the means of entry and exit for the Nazis, and at Turin and other parts of the upper peninsula.

4. All Northern Italy short of food, with the Germans confiscating what is at hand and making no effort to provide for civilians, a job which in any case would be difficult because of the increasing strain on German communications and their destruction by Italian patriots.

Leaflets are being distributed to the Italians urging them to sabotage and fight the Nazis.

At least five German divisions have been badly mauled, sapping strength which the German army can ill afford to lose. Hundreds of square miles of Southern Italy now are in Allied hands and will serve as the base for the drive north.

The next big German stand certainly will be before Naples. The capture of Naples would give the Allies one of the best and largest seaports in Italy through which thousands of tons of supplies could be funneled.

Dash to Rome

The Italians had planned a leisurely schedule for the Americans, but the latter insisted upon seeing the Italian generals immediately. The Americans also insisted upon seeing Marshal Badoglio at once.

The Italians first said it would be impossible to disturb the old marshal after midnight, since he was already asleep several hours, but they finally yielded to the Americans' insistence and telephoned Badoglio's aide and he made an appointment.

THROUGH ROME'S BLACK STREETS

With lights dimmed, the car crept through Rome's blacked-out streets for a quarter-mile, when suddenly a sentry challenged. The car halted and the sentry walked over, flashed a light into the back seat of the car. The Italian general, feigning casualness which certainly he did not feel, produced credentials which satisfied the sentry and he allowed them to proceed.

This was repeated seven or eight times en route to Badoglio's home. Taylor and Gardiner were too concerned about reaching Badoglio to be worried over their personal safety. The Italians, however, were highly nervous, fearing discovery would mean they would be executed as well as the Americans, who had no illusions that their uniforms could save them from death if they fell into hostile hands.

Badoglio, in civilian clothes, received the Americans in the study of his ornate villa. The marshal, whose personal situation was highly dangerous because of the armistice plans, looked very tired and old.

A brief and pointed conversation followed, at the end of which Badoglio took Taylor's hand and, with tears in his eyes, said:

"I swear on my honor and my fifty-five years as a soldier my loyalty to the Allied cause."

Taylor and Gardiner were driven back to their quarters again but were stopped frequently en route by Italian sentries. Taylor then hurriedly wrote a message to send by previously arranged radio communications. He and Gardiner then settled down to await further instructions from Gen. Eisenhower.

The instructions were to fly back to Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters. They made the return trip in a Savoia Marchetti bomber. On the way to the airport their on the Russian front has been hastened by the approaching rainy season. They are afraid of being caught in the mud and bogged down.

Nazi rearwards have still a great deal of fighting spirit, and the Russians gain ground only after bitter struggles. The Nazis expect another tremendous blow between Bryansk and Smolensk, as they say the Red Army is powerfully reinforced and supplied in this area.

Soviet forces have gained another victory along the Desna River. The Germans are fighting fiercely here as further defeats would drive them back towards the Pripiet Marshes, where they would be in grave danger. The Red Army is now less than sixty miles from Kiev. The whole Soviet front, indeed, is advancing between the Kiev and Kremenchuk areas, shaped like a huge spade that digs away Germans on an ever-increasing front.

Recovery of the port of Novorossiysk will be of greatest value to the Red Navy. It is unlikely, adds The Times' Stockholm correspondent, that the Germans will be able to maintain their Kuban bridgehead much longer, especially in view of the Red Army's threat to railway communications into the Crimea. Editorially, The Times says that the Kuban withdrawal will likely be an expensive operation for the Nazis. The Red Fleet in the Black Sea will soon have scope for more extensive operations. A new and formidable Russian offensive is still possible on the northern front before the rainy weather holds it up.

The character of the German retreat does not suggest that it was carried out as planned. It has not been a rout but it has certainly been out of control.

Dealing with the coal miners' strikes, arising in one case from compulsory direction of youths to work underground and imprisonment of one who refused to comply. The Times says that the miners are clearly in a state of unrest and the average output in Scotland, especially, has fallen off just when production for the war effort is most needed.

EDMONTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—A. O. MacLachlan, acting manager of the Dominion Employment Branch here, said today that first groups of a contingent of 500 harvesters expected from Ontario to help relieve the farm labor shortage in Alberta, have arrived in the province. Fifteen men reached Edmonton on Thursday and were distributed to district points, he said.

HANDMADE WITH CARE!

... You'll get more wear!

It's not only a question of economy to make your clothes last as long as possible—it's a matter of necessity, just as it is with your car, tires, electrical equipment and other commodities. It is also our patriotic duty as good citizens to make everything we own last longer—and that definitely includes clothing.

As makers of good clothes for men and women for over three decades, whose main task today is the production of uniforms for our fighting men, we offer these reminders of how to make your clothes give you longer and better service:

1. REST YOUR CLOTHES. Just as you need relaxation, so do your clothes. Alternate your suits. Give the wool a chance to spring back into shape.
2. BRUSH YOUR SUITS DAILY. You brush your teeth every day—do as much for your clothes. They'll appreciate it.
3. LET THEM BREATHE. Leave them hanging in a cool closet, so they won't sweat. Use hangers that conform to the line of the coat. Don't throw your clothes around the room—hang them up where they belong.
4. CLEAN WHEN NECESSARY. Choose a reliable cleaner who knows his business.
5. GUARD AGAINST MOTHS. A ounce of moth prevention is worth many dollars in the longer life of your clothes.
6. CHECK FOR RIPS AND TEARS. "A stitch in time" may save greater damage on a whole suit.

P.S. Naturally, your clothes must be good clothes to begin with—the kind of quality clothing Tip Top Tailors has been famous for since 1910.

Dealers Unable To Supply Wood

Greater Victoria Fuel Dealers' Association is unable to supply International Pulp & Paper Company with large quantities of hemlock, larch, balsam and spruce for a chipping mill to be erected on the Inner Harbor, according to a letter received at the City Hall on Saturday morning.

"We are unable to do this on account of the shortage of wood for household requirements, and wish to know the attitude of the City Council toward needs of the company," the letter stated.

Mayor Andrew McGavin and aldermen will consider the question at a meeting on Monday afternoon. Attention will also be devoted to a communication from Civic Employees' Protective Association asking for a meeting to discuss the cost-of-living bonus, clarify the status of employees hired during the war, review wage scales and deal with certain concessions for waterworks employees.

LONDON, Sept. 18 (CP)—The German news agency, D.N.B., reported from Sofia today that Prime Minister Dobri Bojilov had announced the decision of the new Bulgarian Cabinet to continue collaboration with Germany. The broadcast was heard by The Associated Press.

Saanich Leads Construction

Greater Victoria building inspectors issued forty-one permits valued at $50,053 during the past week. Saanich led with twenty-four permits for $45,810; the city granted fifteen permits representing $3,443, and Esquimalt issued two permits valued at $1,000. No permits were taken out in Oak Bay.

Saanich permits included a $35,000 addition to the Vancouver Island Power Company sub-station at Brentwood, and a number of alterations and additions to dwellings.

In the city, G. B. Murdie, Ltd., took out a $1,500 permit for machine shop extensions at 51 Harbor Road. Williams, Terrie & Williams, Ltd., secured a $2,000 permit to repair fire damage in a store at 1306 Douglas Street.

Esquimalt issued a $3,000 permit to Alexander Bain for a four-room dwelling at 941 Woodlawn Street. H. Brown took out a $2,000 permit for a four-room house at 642 Granville Avenue.

New Index Will Co-Ordinate City Social Services

In order to eliminate waste which might result if social service activities in Victoria were not co-ordinated, a Social Service Index has been established at Welfare House, Pandora Avenue.

With the Community Chest budget set at $45,000 in the approaching campaign, organizations which derive financial support from it can not afford duplication of service and unnecessary overhead.

It is a highly specialized service in the welfare field. Listed in the index are all cases which have required assistance of the different agencies over a lengthy period. The information is strictly confidential and is available only to member agencies and those non-associated groups which contribute to its upkeep.

Nothing is listed on actual case histories. That material is assembled and maintained as the confidential information of the agency concerned.

ASSISTS INDIVIDUAL SOCIAL WORKERS

However, the social worker can, through the assisting agency, determine whether or not her specific services are required or if they would merely duplicate the activity carried on by some other group.

The index helps to avoid multiple investigations, with the embarrassment they might bring the client. The individual requiring aid need not go through repeated questionings before assistance can be given him or her. In those cases where such questioning entails major psychological distress, the client undergoes the ordeal but once.

Compiled and kept up-to-date by one full time worker, assisted by a part-time employee, it constitutes a nerve centre for all the Community Chest agencies and is one of the most important units within that organization for the increase of efficiency and the elimination of waste.

Radio Stars Will Perform at Shrine On Friday, Sept. 24

Once again Canada's "ace" guitarist, Ray Norris, and his all-star group will make a personal appearance at the Shrine Auditorium, Friday, September 24. And, as in August, Ray Norris' "Disciplinarians" will play a full programme of dance music as well as entertain with novelty songs and unique musical arrangements. Ray Norris' "Serenade in Swing," heard regularly on Monday nights at 9:45 o'clock on CBR, is a fair example of what to expect Friday, September 24.

Appearing with Ray Norris will be Victoria's own Ches Gutter, a "home town" who has really made a name for himself in Vancouver. Clarinetist Phil Simmons, Canada's own Benny Goodman, will again be on hand to entertain, as will Drummer Boy Louie Nelson, "soul singer," Bud Henderson, pianist, and Bud Hamer, Vancouver's top-notch trumpeter. These radio stars will return to the bandstand of the Shrine Auditorium, Friday, September 24.

According to Culbertson

It is only logical to listen to the opponents' bidding and to draw certain conclusions therefrom, but it is fatal to "believe" that bidding implicitly. For example:

South dealer, Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH

A 5
J 7 5 3
10 7 2

WEST
Q J 7
Q 4
A 10 8 5
A 8 6 5

EAST

10 9 7 6 3
K 6 5

South, declarer had lost two tricks, had won five, and still needed four for his contract. After long consideration, he let the diamond nine. West naturally covered with the ace, but declarer did not put in dummy's jack, and East, of course, also ducked. Now West made a fatal reversal: He remembered South's original spade bid, hence was afraid to open up the suit and jeopardize his spade stopper. Knowing that East must have the diamond king, West led the eight of diamonds. East won, but the defence had collapsed. Declarer won East's heart return, and West could not discard without establishing either the diamond jack or dummy's third spade.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 NT Pass
Pass Pass

After the hand was over, South hastened to point out that his remarkable spade bid had been the result of "a club getting mixed in with the spade suit." Whether this was true, or whether the bid was an out and out psychic, is beside the point except to explain the dangerous final contract.

Sandham Graves Appointed Editor

The directors of The Daily Colonist announced yesterday that Sandham Graves would succeed to the editorship, left vacant through the passing of the late Mr. Charles Swayne, who had held the position for twenty-seven years. The appointment will take effect immediately, the directors said.

Born at Dublin, Ireland, forty-nine years ago, Mr. Graves joined the editorial staff of The Daily Colonist in 1919, after service as a telegraphist in the First Canadian Division, C.E.F., and as a fighter-pilot in the Royal Flying Corps in France and Egypt. A member of the Institute of Journalists and the Legislative Press Gallery of British Columbia, Mr. Graves had been assistant editor of The Daily Colonist under the late Mr. Swayne.

Power Firm Will Meet Premier on Public Ownership

Appointment of a committee of four by the British Columbia Power Corporation to discuss acquisition of the company's utility services by municipalities, arrangement for a meeting of this committee with Premier John Hart in Toronto before the end of this month, and a preliminary statement of attitude by the power company were the three major points in an announcement made today by Premier Hart.

The announcement followed a conference held by the Premier with W. G. Murrin, president, and A. T. Goward, vice-president of the British Columbia Power Corporation. The power company officials sought an interview with the Premier, and at the conference Mr. Murrin officially delivered a letter in reply to a communication from the Premier directed to the power company in which he pointed out that the municipalities had indicated their desire to consider the question of acquiring the electric power, light and transit services operated by the British Columbia Power Corporation within their boundaries.

In the official reply to the Premier's letter, the directors of the company advised that while they would prefer to continue to operate and develop the services now maintained by the company, the directors, however, had appointed a committee of four, three of whom represent the Canadian interests and one representing British interests, to discuss the proposals.

War Breaks Down Commerce Barriers

CHICAGO (CP)—War is something of a peacetime transportation's toughest problems—legislative barriers to interstate trucking operations.

To facilitate the movement of war materials on the highways several states have suspended limitations, either through action of the legislatures or by executive order of the governors, according to the Public Administration Clearing House.

New Mexico, Maine and Arkansas have liberalized their laws regarding maximum weights. Oregon has granted non-resident owners and operators the privilege of using state highways without the payment of extra fees. Some, including South Dakota, Utah and Oklahoma, have provided for reciprocal agreements with other states regarding licenses, registration and fees.

THE ARMOR OF LIGHT

The world has fought many things in its day. Folly, pride and ignorance, the black arts of human neglect and bitterness, superstition and its barren seeds have been some of them. Seldom, however, has humanity had to fight such stark and unrelieved cruelty and the abuse of power as are masquerading today in the guise of a new order for the relief of mankind; a gospel of darkness, ruin and despair, which, if it succeeded, would put out the lights of the world for a millennium. Happily, it is not succeeding.

It is a test of the individual worth of human beings, and proof of their kinship with a true order of Light, and not of darkness, that every instinct, feeling and response within them revolts against cruelty in any form. A reign of cruelty, a reign of terror has so outraged the human family that everywhere it has taken arms against it in the field. Out of holocaust, men will extract mercy; and from hatred, love. Even while the battle is on these things are being wrought out in men's minds. Tyranny itself must die, and from its corpse must arise a fairer and a juster world.

It is significant that, at the height of the mortal storm, humanity is placing higher and more genuine values on simple truths such as the world has long known. Kindness, forbearance, the will to serve others in place of self, this is the coinage to which a tortured humanity turns in its night of terror. Once again truth has vestments, and honor meaning. Once more men pledge and keep their given word, even to the death. Deep and sure under all is the knowledge of a cause higher than man's will, a faith that, with the help of Providence, humanity will cast off the works of darkness and put on the armor of Light. Like a beacon through the centuries that Light has been growing stronger, for all the surrounding gloom. It is the Light of the Spirit that was given to man to distinguish him from the beasts.

ELECTION HORIZONS?

National political parties do not hold policy-making conferences, which are costly affairs, for the doubtful enjoyment of a reunion in some Eastern city in wartime. The gathering of Liberal members and supporters at Ottawa, timed to begin towards the end of this week, is an indication that something has arisen upon which Liberal leaders wish to confer with the party as a whole. That something might be, as it has been frequently suggested in Liberal ranks, a general Federal election; or it might not.

Whatever else might be argued in its favor, the Mackenzie King Administration has two unexpired years to go in office before a general election would be necessary through any demand of parliamentary procedure. The Administration holds an overwhelming balance of power in Parliament; and cannot therefore plead lack of support in the House of Commons, or indeed in the Senate. To anticipate an election by a year or more would require some very special reasons. Leaving these considerations aside, the war quite clearly is approaching its climax. The division, turmoil and contention of a Federal general election would not be precisely the best backing that Canada could give to those of her men and women who are fighting for her overseas, unless, as stated, some very strong reasons are present. Political expediency would not be a valid reason, nor could it justify the expense and unrest of a Federal general election at a crucial moment in the war.

The Liberal conference, however, may be innocent of all such aims. The country will be watching with some interest to find out. For what Canada needs at the moment is to work hard at its obligations in the war, whose main issue is in balance.

STEADY PULL NEEDED

Quite clearly, the United Nations are at a major opportunity in the war, the first in four long years of embittered conflict. For two years the aggressors appeared to be winning, hands down. In the third year, 1942, the free world pulled itself together, and commenced slowly to take up the strain. In every theatre the enemy was stopped, and in not a few he was driven back substantially. This year the continent of Africa was freed, the Mediterranean Sea was opened, the Germans were driven from all save their crumbling foothold in Russia, the seas and skies were cleared over a vast area, Italy was knocked out of the Axis, and the Japanese were corralled on both northern and southern flanks. Freedom was fighting back in unison.

Naturally enough, such a tremendous reversal in fortunes has had its effect on the free peoples of the world. It has given new life and hope to countless millions in overrun lands. It has led to a jubilant, optimistic spirit, which, however, must be harnessed to some useful task if it is to do any good in the war, or to contribute in any wise to the actual liberation of the world. That task still lies in the future, when the result of improved manpower, equipment, communications and all other factors can be brought solidly to bear upon the enemy, to drive him out. It will be for the experts to say when, where and how this preponderance of human force is to be applied.

Freedom's opportunity, and it is one shared by all the United Nations alike, is to shorten the conflict by contributing its longest, strongest and steadiest pull now, when it will have the greatest effect. Our men on the battle fronts are doing, and will do, all that could possibly be required of them. Already they have taken the measure of an enemy they know they can conquer. The real weight of this opportunity, then, rests at home, where ordinary, everyday people have each a task to do, a valid and worthwhile contribution to make now at an epic moment in human history.

Put in other terms, that means that everyone

In Canada has a fresh, and a greater, responsibility in this nation's response to the war. It is a time to lay aside differences, to coalesce and merge in a united effort to produce the maximum result of which we jointly are capable. Both the duration of the conflict, and the toll of direct human suffering in it can be reduced by honest, continued and sincere work now on the home front. Literally, human lives are at stake. We can conserve those lives and insure an earlier victory if each one in his place gives now of his best.

What we should push from our minds, with all of the self-control we can muster, is the insidious thought that victory has already been won, and that the United Nations have nothing to do save coast from here. That is simply not true. It is against all of the facts and circumstances that can be adduced and weighed. On the contrary, probably the hardest battles of the war have yet to come, against a foe that is being systematically cornered like a rat. Cornered rats fight back. What we are entitled to comfort ourselves with is the fact that aggression cannot now win. Three, even two, years ago that could not have been written. Today it can. Let us, then, seize the opportunity—and shorten the war. This is the time to work, act and fight!

THE COMMUNITY CHEST

In a few days' time the Community Chest of Greater Victoria will be launching its annual drive for public subscription to those organized charities of which it stands in charge. The appeal, coming before the Fifth Victory Loan and after successive special and regular campaigns to raise funds, falls somewhat unfortunately in season, but that cannot be helped. The need is genuine, and every effort will have to be made to see that services of long-continued value to this community, and to everyone in it, are maintained. Rightly considered, the Community Chest ought to be regarded as a year-round community undertaking, which in fact it is. Registered charitable societies, each specializing in its own line of welfare, have to spread both their intake and their outlay over twelve months in the year. The service they give is known and budgeted. Audited reports are on hand for every phase of it, from month to month and from year to year.

These services, moreover, dovetail and do not overlap. The dollars collected by public subscription for a set purpose are spent to that end, and not for any other. It is a sane and ordered way of doing a very necessary business, the responsibility of easing some of the real and insistent pressures which fall on humanity in these critical and emergent times. The year-end reports indicate that these are high-value dollars, perhaps the best bargain this community can get for its money in the broad field of human welfare.

Some years ago Victoria adopted the Community Chest plan, as being the most workmanlike scheme whereby a fixed set of community tasks and responsibilities could be both carried out and shared. A highly trained personnel has been assembled through the years, and from its physical standpoint the plan is working well. The Community Chest, however, must be filled, or the whole device falls to the ground. That is a point to remember. This is the obligation of the community and of everyone in it, each according to his means.

SONG OF THE SEA

The sea has many voices, from the thunder of the raging ocean to the whisper, hardly more than a sigh, which it breathes over the sands at the head of a long and sheltered inlet. It knows the full-throated tones of nature's grandest organ, swelling in triumphant chords which beat like heavy gunfire on the eardrums. It knows the little steps that nature pulls with cunning artifice, to nudge a sleeping eel but not awaken it. In all its many voices the sea has ever held a deep and satisfying comfort for mankind.

It is the little voices of the sea that draw people to the beaches, to hear the elfin symphonies that play upon a quiet strand. There is the gentle lapping of the inch-high ripples where expended waves caress a slowly shelving shore. There is the tinkling of small pebbles; where they jostle one another at the making of the tide. There is the quiet surge which stirs the fringed seaweed, growing on the tidal rocks. Many and soft are the voices of a placid sea upon a quiet shore.

Stronger speaks the sea when wind and tide are making; when a cross chop breaks the surface, and sends a line of white-foam, cavalry charging with their tossing feathered head-pieces. Stronger again it speaks when ships put out of harbor, beyond the shelter of the land; where forefoot beats with rhythmic pulse, and rigging starts its drumming. Louder, clearer rings the water when, seas abeam, the waves rear up, draw back, make on and charge with restless fury against a straining hull and creaking timber. Strongest of all in a storm, when awful voices boom, and lightning rives the heavens with its searing, livid fingers. Yet in all its moods, the sea has been man's ancient friend and comforter, the bringer of glad tidings from afar.

OUR COMMON CLAY

I remember a morgue in Vancouver where, each in the pale silence clad, they slept in one chamber together. The good, the indifferent and bad.

And one was found dead in the forest. Another was dragged from the sea, Self- slain by a spirit in torture. Now painless and tranquil and free.

And one had breathed death like an incense In an aura of saintly flame. And one had gasped out her hot anguish In a hostel of sin and shame.

Yet with all her faults she was human, Her failings had died with her breath, And the face of the angel in woman Returned with the angel of death.

And the face of the merciless miser Was meek as the face of a child, While the face of the hard and inhuman Was softened and gentle and mild.

Now gone were all life-long pretences, No more the mask of the hypocrite's smile. There was peace on the face of the sinner And peace on the face of the saint.

They lay there as sisters and brothers, Alike from the light of the day, And the soul of inaudible concord Sang from their common clay.

A sign that in ages eternal In spaces with love ever rife They will climb to the summits supernal, The heights of eternal life.

710 Rupert Street, Victoria, B.C.

It is quite deplorable to see how many rational creatures, or at least who are thought so, mistake suffering for sanctity, and think a sad face and a pious habit of mind profound offerings to that deity whose works are in light and truth and harmony and loveliness—Lady Morgan.

Little Coves

Continued

Here and there along the many narrow salt water highways and ways of the British Columbia coast are to be found dwellings set in the centre of tree-cleared patches of ground, their presence indicating, on somebody's part, either a desire for seclusion or a great ambition to do a little pioneering. Some of the dwellings and their surroundings, especially where the water highways are more or less common to travel, have not quite the solitary appearance others located on less frequent and more remote byways exhibit. All represent homes, however, and house grand folk as a general rule.

Particularly appealing to a small boat wayfarer, in days when the writer was wont to wander by strait and channel among the clusters of islands lying between the Island of Vancouver and the Mainland shores of the province, were the little frame- and log houses standing bravely in their small clearings at the head of sheltered coves, with the land in front sloping gradually down to small rubble-covered beaches, and looking seaward to the evergreen wall of the challenging forest.

The small cove was always a first consideration of the pioneer selecting a homestead, for it was necessary to have a safe haven in which the boat could be moored or beached and be available when the desire to call on the next-door neighbor, maybe miles away, became urgent, as it occasionally happened. A boat was the Coast pioneer's lifeline, too. Jobs had to be rustled by water, at logging camp and cannery, if the trifle of clothing required now and then as well as certain foodstuffs wanted to augment the garden produce and what the woods and water supplied in the way of birds, venison and fish, were to be obtained. So the little cove was most important in the Coast pioneer's planning.

ON CHANNEL LEADING TO NORTHERN B.C.

One of such little coves in particular I have in mind. It was situated on the west side of the narrow channel leading to the north. This channel was not really isolated, being regularly used at certain seasons of the year and especially when the fishing boats were bound to or returning from Northern British Columbia waters. When a settler pre-empted the land adjacent to the cove it became a stopover point for boat skippers willing to spell themselves for a few hours after a long day of navigating. They were welcome there, and made to feel the welcome was genuine. And so was I when I rowed in there one evening just before dusk and made preparations to make camp for the night on the beach.

If the ageing man and wife I met there had ever been imbued with the desire to get a ten-day inspection trip, I would have been the last to suggest that Japan is still to come but added that "it may seem significant that our navy hasn't seen a Japanese aircraft carrier in the last four months."

"Apparently they don't like to come out where it is wet," he told a press conference.

Knox said he could not imagine a happier day than this in the light of Italian developments.

"It is a joy to see how thoroughly we (British and Americans) have learned to work together," he said.

The secretary arrived in Britain by plane, accompanied by Captain Gerald P. Lovell, chief of the Navy Public Relations Department.

From an editorial in See: "Enemy propagandists abetted by unthinking humanitarians want us to believe that the kindly, beer-drinking, music-loving Teuton of cartoon and history has nothing in common with Hitler and the Nazis. For the Germans to have voted Nazism into power without believing in it wholeheartedly is of course absurd. Nazism is the modern expression of age-old German resentment against the world, which has wrought injustice, death and bloodshed for 800 years. Blameworthy as the Germans are, it is not the Prussian hotel in 1870, with Prussianism, German culture died. The malevolent virus of German misbehavior was spawned before recorded history, and goes back to Aleric and Attila. There is no cure for it. Churchill summed it up recently when he said, 'The German is either at your feet or at your throat.' If the Germans cannot be kept permanently at our feet, they must be eliminated. Our enemy is the German, not particularly the Nazi. Let us not forget it when victory is won."

Knox in England

LONDON, Sept. 18 (CP)—Frank Knox, United States Navy Secretary, arrived in England for a ten-day inspection trip, warned that the main battle against Japan is still to come but added that "it may seem significant that our navy hasn't seen a Japanese aircraft carrier in the last four months."

"Apparently they don't like to come out where it is wet," he told a press conference.

Knox said he could not imagine a happier day than this in the light of Italian developments.

The first time my friends of the mission boat met the pioneers it was a sultry day. The man was then in his eighties, and he and his wife were busy harrowing. The man was

Enemy Aircraft Are Less Active—Three hostile airplanes on a night bombing expedition were brought down inside the British lines last night, according to the official statement on aviation. Several other enemy machines were destroyed altogether and five others driven down out of control. Our machines were at work all day carrying out reconnaissance and photography behind the German lines; observing and reporting the effect of our artillery fire and bombing enemy airfields, ammunition dumps and other selected targets.

Made Record Trip—H.M.S. Melampus made the run up from Calico to Victoria direct over 3,000 miles in twenty-three days, no stoppages being made for coaling. This is one of the records of the navy. The voyage was one of the most unpleasant of the officers ever experienced, heavy storms and gales being met with, while there was almost constant rain. The Melampus is now alongside the naval yard dock, having extensive repairs made before going to Vancouver to recommission.

The Eighth Column

By TOM TAYLOR

LITTLE RESEMBLANCE

Some correspondents with the Fifth Army in Italy, with more imagination than accuracy, have been comparing the Salerno battle with Gallipoli. Actually, except that in each case men had to land from boats on hostile beaches, something that faces our troops with every fresh attack on the European front, there is little resemblance between the present struggle in Italy and the ill-fated Gallipoli expedition. The purpose is different, the physical situation unlike, the means at hand in great contrast, and the result certain to be completely opposite.

But the association of ideas has affected some of their dispatches, and one of them a few days ago was saying that the first great Allied defeat in Italy might be at hand. He cannot be of such stern stuff as the men he writes about, for it is a sad bet the word evacuation never entered their heads, just as it never entered the heads of the men who did the fighting at Gallipoli.

Another correspondent, pursuing his imagined parallel with Gallipoli and citing Australians and New Zealanders storming ashore against the Turks, described the set-up at Salerno as much the same, with the beaches in both instances as perfect for landing purposes.

FAIR FROM PERFECT

He must have been reading Grimm's fairy tales. Not being at Salerno Bay this writer knows nothing of the Italian shoreline but he has vivid recollections of the Gallipoli beaches twenty-eight years ago, and perfect is not just the word he would apply to the narrow strips of sand lying at the foot of precipitous cliffs, mixed and wired on shore and under water, that were the only landing places on that barren, inhospitable peninsula. The simile correspondent omitted to mention that in addition to Anzac at Gallipoli there were British divisions, a poor compliment to the thousands of Dublin, Munster and Lancashire Fusiliers who died on the Cape Helles beaches, the bloodiest of all the Gallipoli landings.

While it is to be hoped the Salerno landing was not so costly as the Gallipoli assault, one losses before the Germans are driven out of Italy might easily reach the tragic figures of the whole Gallipoli campaign. It is unreasonable to expect our armies to proceed with the unvarying success that has marked their progress in the Mediterranean theatre in recent months, enjoying a comparatively low ratio of casualties. War is not without taking a steep back occasionally, and good fortune in the past should not make us unduly sanguine about the future.

HALF-HEARTED SUPPORT

In the most important aspect of all Salerno is totally unlike Gallipoli. Men and munitions have poured into the Italian mainland at a rate that would have been miraculous in the weary Dardanelles soldiers, whose reinforcements were always too little and too late, and who were only too accustomed to being starved of everything from bread to bullets. At Salerno the troops fight with the resources of two nations being used unsparringly to back them up. In Gallipoli men languished and died while Whitehall maddened, heeding the blandishments of the Western Front, parsimoniously whitened down requests for desperately needed assistance.

Gallipoli was not a failure because of the men who fought there, but because of the half-hearted support of the men who sent them. In all the nine months of the Dardanelles campaign the troops never reached half as far inland as the Fifth Army did in the first week at Salerno. They clung to beachheads never more than four miles in depth; yet not precariously, for they could have stayed indefinitely had their own faith found sustenance in the will to win of those at home.

How lacking that will was they discovered when a general fresh out of England eventually arrived to cast a magisterial eye over the situation, spend a whole half-hour ashore on the torn Gallipoli beaches, and then advise evacuation. No wonder Roger Keyes, the very young commodore now better known as Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, founder of the "Commander," paraphrased bitterly, "He came, he saw, he capitulated."

CANNOT HAPPEN NOW

That cannot happen in Italy. Whatever else they lack, our men today are not likely to suffer for want of support, either material or moral. After having put their hands to the plough, there will be no turning back until the furrows are etched deep and even over all the land that needs turned to the cleansing air of decency and freedom.

History is full of its, each with its potential train of consequence, but Gallipoli is one of the biggest. It could have been so different and at no impossible effort, had those who might have changed its course been willing to put more than half a mind to it. In a letter to the editor a few years ago, General Sir Ian Hamilton, recalling the campaign he had directed with distinction despite much difficulty and frustration, remarked: "A few good soldiers; the ordinary ten per cent. masses; all of them asked for before leaving, would have changed the whole face of the war. But the immense moral pressure against us, especially from France, was too great and our project failed."

Had it not failed, there might have been no need for Salerno.

The hereditary royal family in Denmark is the house of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg.

The Home Front

Continued

The church, the home and the school are woven inseparably into the fabric of our Christian civilization fighting on the home front. The weapons used here are of different stuff to those of the men serving in the battle areas. They have to fight that we may live to build. How are we building in church, in home, in school to retain "those things which cannot be shaken?" The question may be poignant.

In the marketplace of today the church and the home are in the fight on the civilian front in close co-operation. To those who would hold secure the rights of their countrymen and countrywomen away in actual battle areas, the strengthening of home and defending and strengthening of church are synonymous.

It is inconsistent to claim a full participation in the struggle for victory over the common foe without giving paramount attention to the fight required by those at home. From certain angles this attitude has been given proper development for some time, yet we feel that not enough prominence has been given to it from another angle. Home and church are factors forming a combined front sustaining a continuous encouragement to all participating in the war and urging forward all who are connected with projects and enterprises conducive to a constructive peace.

To keep the weapons on the home front in good working condition requires the collaboration of all the resources which are in accord with the aim and object of each. The mother who relaxes her vigil for the well being of her growing family is putting a greater load upon the shoulders of others working toward the same ends. Her part can never be filled adequately by others, but fortunately we have ever before us in our Christian democracy the principle that we are our brother's keeper.</

Thousands Frozen In Jobs in Canada Under New Order

Fuel, Food, Meat, Newspaper and Many Other Industries Are Affected

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 (CP).—New control measures to keep employees of high priority industries at their present jobs were announced late today by Labor Minister Mitchell.

The latest manpower regulations, which practically amounted to "freezing" male workers in "A" and "B" priority industries, require that men in these categories now may not be released by their employers and may not give notice of separation to their employers without first obtaining the written permission of a Selective Service Officer.

The order is effective today. The minister's announcement said the two top priorities include "all war industries and essential civilian services, including the delivery of fuel in cities, food processing and meat-packing plants and many other services."

The publication of newspapers and the dissemination of news are also included in the priorities which come under the order.

No estimate was available of the number of workers who come under the Government's latest manpower action, but officials said the effect would be "very widespread." It is understood a further announcement will be made giving more detail of the types of employment which fall within the provisions of the order.

ISSUE PERMITS IF NECESSARY

The Labor Department said in Selective Service permits will permit the issuance of the necessary permits to allow obvious hardship or unfairness would result from refusal to grant a permit.

Island Bases Of Japanese Are Pounded

Ninety-Four-Ton Raid On Cape Gloucester

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 21 (Tuesday) (AP)—New Guinea and New Britain bases of the Japanese, most immediately menaced by Allied capture of airbases at Lae and Salamaua, have begun to rock under an increased weight of bombs.

Today's communiqué told of a ninety-four-ton raid Sunday by heavy bombers in considerable force on the enemy airbase of Cape Gloucester on the westernmost tip of New Britain, only about 120 miles northeast of Lae. These raiders, protected by fighters, all got home after wrecking five grounded enemy bombers and a fighter, destroying two anti-aircraft positions, aliening a third and spreading fire visible for seventy miles.

Long-range fighters moved up New Britain's north coast to strike an airbase, supply dumps, anti-aircraft positions and surface craft in the Kimbe Bay area.

Only sixty miles east of New Guinea, medium bombers dropped twenty-two tons of bombs Sunday on airbases and other targets and strafed enemy-occupied villages and surface craft near Finischaire.

Two enemy planes made a feeble night raid on the big Allied base of Port Moresby, New Guinea.

Bombings Turned Tide at Salerno

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Concentrated bombing turned the tide of the battle of Salerno and eased a serious situation enabling British and American troops to resume the offensive, the Air Ministry tonight said in a summary tonight.

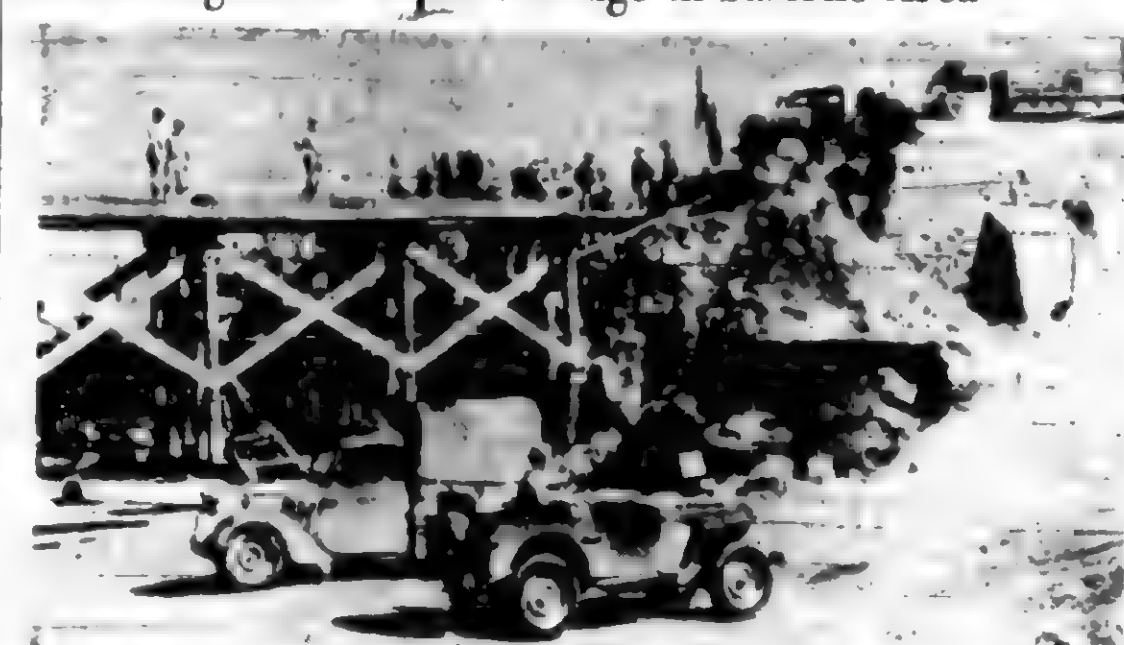

For seventy-two hours the whole might of both the Northwest African strategic and tactical air forces was hurled at Nazi troops and gun positions which commanded the Salerno beaches, it said. Under this pounding and the stiff ground defense, the Germans yielded.

"Allied ground and air forces are now so concentrated in this theatre that they are used by the supreme commander as though they were his right and left fist," the news service stated.

Nanaimo Miners To Vote on Strike

(Special to The Colonist)

NANAIMO, Sept. 20 (CP).—Miners of Nanaimo and district will take a vote Tuesday at No. 10 Mine, Timberlands, and No. 8, South Wellington, to see whether they favor a strike of British Columbia miners to enforce a demand for time-and-one-half pay for overtime and a straight rate of $2 daily. The results of the voting will be forwarded to officials of District 18, U.M.W.A., at Calgary, at whose request the vote is being taken throughout the province.

Berlin Radio Warns Church

Vatican Must Choose Broadcast Declares

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (CP).—The Nazi-sponsored Fascist Government in a broadcast to Italy tonight by the Berlin radio warned: "Let the policy of the Vatican force us not to have recourse to radical measures."

As recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, the statement declared that "the Vatican, the prelates, all the hierarchy of the church, from the Pope down to the parish priests, have this choice either with Fascist and Catholic Italy or against it. It is not a problem of conscience. It is a dilemma that is before the men of the church. It is not a problem of faith. It is a dilemma that is before the organization of the Catholic Church."

Earlier tonight two Vatican radio broadcasts indicated that German manoeuvres had interrupted some Vatican City routine even while the Berlin radio denied the placing of any restrictions there.

"Owing to circumstances beyond our control," said one Spanish language broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors "postal communication with our listeners continues to be interrupted."

It was not brought out whether the disruption of mail service was (Continued on Page 3)

Mosher Says Code Needed

TORONTO, Sept. 20 (CP).—A R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor in a speech made here today, before the United Rubber Workers of America (C.I.O.) convention said that Canadian workers need a labor code, similar to that of the United States.

"We in Canada are still striving for a labor code guaranteeing workers the right to organize and bargain collectively and punishing employers who do not want to recognize labor's right."

He went on: "It is the responsibility of organized labor to make certain that those who bear arms for us will not come back to face conditions like those that followed the last war."

Believe Nazis to Abandon Caucasus

Red Army Overruns 1,130 Towns, Flanks German Anchor at Smolensk

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP).—The Red Army overran more than 1,130 villages and towns today, flanking the German central anchor at Smolensk and cutting the Kiev-Chernigov highway and the railway into the Crimea amid signs that the enemy was abandoning the Caucasus.

A Moscow communiqué also disclosed tonight that a vast Red Army wheeling movement aimed at Cherkassy, on the middle Dnieper south-east of Kiev, in an effort to trap hundreds of thousands of enemy troops in the river bend. One Red Army unit was within forty miles of the Cherkassy area, key to the extensive rail network in the bend.

East of the bend the Red Army reached a point only eight miles from Melitopol after snapping the Crimean escape railway between Zaporozhe and Dnepropetrovsk and capturing a town only fifteen miles from the Dnieper, said the broadcast communiqué recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Red armies of the Black Sea fleet, the bulletin said, sank a German mine sweeper and three troop barges along the south side of the Taman Peninsula north of recaptured Novorossiysk, indicating an enemy withdrawal from the narrow Caucasian foothold.

Nearly 10,000 Germans were reported killed by the pursuing Russians along a 750-mile front in an accelerated drive that has swept up more than 3,000 villages and towns in three days.

Twenty-Five Die in Crash

MAXTON, N.C. Sept. 20 (AP).—Twenty-five soldiers died today in the crash of an army transport plane on the Laurinburg-Maxton Army Air Base field two miles from here, the Public Relations Office announced.

The big ship making a routine flight crashed after it struck earth. "Names of those killed will be available for release after next of kin have been notified," authorities said.

No details of the crash were made available. It was announced that a board of inquiry had been appointed.

Officers said it was the first aircraft casualty at the field which has been in operation more than a year.

J. A. Bell on Labor Board

C.P.R. Man Named To Succeed Cohen

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 (CP).—John A. Bell, chairman of the general adjustments committee of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, was appointed today to the National War Labor Board to succeed temporarily J. L. Cohen, K.C., whose membership was terminated by the Federal Cabinet.

Mr. Bell, a resident of Toronto, has been prominent in Canadian labor activities for many years. He is a member of the National War Labor Board advisory committee and is also a member of the National Selective Service administration advisory committee. His appointment to the board was announced from the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The temporary nature of Mr. Bell's appointment was not explained in Mr. King's announcement, which said merely that he had been appointed "pro tempore" to succeed Mr. Cohen.

Mr. Bell is a native of Utopia, Ont., and entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway as a telegraph operator in 1910 and has been on leave of absence from the company since his whole time to union activities.

Mr. Bell's appointment brings the board to its full strength of seven members. It was originally set up at a time when it faced a heavy list of references, many of which it will begin work tomorrow.

STRIKE SPREADS

GLASGOW, Sept. 20 (AP).—A strike which began today in the Glasgow shipbuilding industry, where workers are protesting against a proposed wage cut, has spread to other parts of the city.

The big ship making a routine flight crashed after it struck earth. "Names of those killed will be available for release after next of kin have been notified," authorities said.

No details of the crash were made available. It was announced that a board of inquiry had been appointed.

Officers said it was the first aircraft casualty at the field which has been in operation more than a year.

Badoglio Calls on Italy to Fight Alongside the Allies

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 20 (AP).—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio called today on the people of Italy to fight alongside the Allies.

He said the Italian people should be aware of the fact that the Italian people are now fighting alongside the Allies and that they should be proud of their contribution to the Allied cause.

The Premier's appeal in effect a declaration of hostilities was the first official indication from any source that the Italians might be accepted as full-fledged allies in the campaign to drive the Germans from Italy.

Badoglio declared that "all talk about unconditional surrender (to the Allies) is out of date and irrelevant to the changed conditions of today," adding that "we have intervened decisively against Germany following on the aggressive attitude of the Germans."

Nazis Rush New Troops Into Battle

Report 250,000 Men To Italy and Balkans

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP).—The Germans were reported tonight to be rushing thirty divisions, aggregating more than 250,000 men, to Italy and the Balkans to protect themselves from the growing Allied menace to their southern flank.

Twenty-four of the divisions were said to have been dispatched to the Balkans and the others to Italy. These figures came from an informant who is in clandestine communication with sources inside Germany. While they are not subject to precise confirmation, they stood up well against the background of known facts.

The informant said twenty of the divisions were drawn from Hitler's strategic reserves behind the Russian front, while three were taken from Norway and one from Holland. The other fourteen were said to be of sub-standard quality, made up of youngsters, convalescents and mid-disabled men drawn from the interior of Germany.

This would bring the German troop strength in Italy to about twenty-four divisions while the (Continued on Page 3)

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP).—The great German fortress of Smolensk has been broken open, by the Russian army, which has won many notable victories along the whole 700-mile front.

The Russians are now only twenty-four miles from the Dnieper and have tightened their grip on the railway system in the east, capturing outposts and towns at strategic points. Only at one point was the German line to be cut for the time being to be isolated in the Crimea.

The Times Stockholm correspondent says 1,000 small towns and villages have been liberated in the Russian advance in the past two days and there is no sign of slackening in the army's victorious progress. But he reports a lack of big operations. (Continued on Page 2)

SARDINIAN AIRFIELDS

Sardinia is an important acquisition to the United Nations in the war. Even as the manner of its conquest was significant and perhaps unique—two Italian divisions drove the Germans in flight to Corsica—so the physical occupation of the island by the Allies takes the battle a long stride nearer to Southern Germany, removing most of the blank spots by air. There will be little need now for Allied planes to cross the Alps on their way to Italy. A direct air route is opened into the heart of Germany in its hitherto protected southern provinces.

The election of the Germans from Sardinia gives the lie direct to Nazi efforts to set up a puppet regime in occupied Italy. Taken in conjunction with the reception the Sicilians have given British and United States forces from Palermo, the liberation of Sardinia by Italian arms is one of the most promising signs in the war. It means that dominated peoples once they are given the means of doing so will join in the fight, and help to eject the enemy from his last and his remotest foothold. What the Italians did last week in Sardinia all Italy may be doing shortly, when the means are there.

Important as this is, however, Sardinia itself takes a special place in the news of the period. For its permanent airfields at Cagliari and elsewhere, the Allies will now be able to concentrate bombing forces which can be applied with telling effect over a vast new area of the conflict. Numbers of airfields are strung along the western and northwestern slopes of the island, open to us by water, and closed to the enemy, whose tenure of Corsica must now be strictly limited.

Sardinia, likewise, removes the last foothold of the Germans in the Western Mediterranean Sea. In a military sense, it bears on the northern section of Italy, far above the point where German troops have attempted their failing intermediate stand. By sea, it is a prime factor, and a key piece in the conflict that is shaping towards decisive moves. By air, Sardinia is the equivalent of a fleet of unsinkable aircraft carriers, placed so that Germany's last shields by virtue of distance and topography have been brushed aside. For this unforeseen contribution by Italian arms the Allies will be duly grateful.

WHAT ABOUT REGIMENTS?

With the principle of reorganization of three divisions, somewhat hurriedly created in Canada for coastal defenses earlier in the war, this paper has already agreed. Reorganization is a very broad term, however, and much will depend upon how it is carried out as to whether or not the result will be a gain. For instance, what is being done about long established Canadian regiments, whose second and third battalions have long since been formed? Are these to be broken up?

Victoria, as the home of The Canadian Scottish Regiment, is very much interested in the matter. Although they perpetuated one of the most famous units of the last war, the Sixteenth Canadian Infantry Battalion, The Canadian Scottish were not very generously treated at the outbreak of hostilities this time. Their first battalion is overseas. Their second battalion is unofficially said to be within the group of those units which are to be reorganized. Does this mean that the second battalion of The Canadian Scottish Regiment is to be broken up? The second battalion of this regiment was organized at outbreak of the war, and has seen more than four years' active service.

The same question would apply to other Canadian regiments with battle honors from the past and active service in this conflict. In several instances they have put successive battalions into uniform. Some, at least, of the supplementary battalions are within the group of units included in the three divisions in Canada now to be reorganized. Many veterans of the last war, and many officers and men in this conflict, would appreciate some assurance that no Canadian regiment is to be broken up.

A division is a grouping of brigades of several units. These units can be switched without any final harm; but no regiment can be reduced without loss to its morale and usefulness. If senior regiments in Canada are to have their supplementary battalions disbanded, the labor of twenty-five to thirty years will be thrown away; together with an esprit de corps without which no regiment is more than a collection of ciphers upon paper. We do not say that this is being done, although the suggestion has been mentioned. We do say that it would be a very great mistake: a misconception of what a regiment is and how it functions.

WORK WELL DONE

Although the full story of Victoria's output in shipping during the war cannot be told now, this community has every right to take credit for a programme that has been noteworthy in several directions. Continuity of construction, a high-test product and amiable industrial relations, have been mentioned time and again by those who sign for the ships when built. Victoria's shipyard has been a model of efficiency and continuity across Canada was no accident, and the new frigate that took the water to fly the White Ensign of the senior service was the best of her kind.

It is difficult to believe that an industry built up during four years of emergency times, involving thousands of men with skilled callings, and applied to something so useful as the construction of sea-going tonnage, will be permitted to lapse after the war. Rather is it likely that Canada, on both coasts, will find herself in a position to compete in a new-born trade which will require new and vastly different types of construction than that needed in wartime. If that proves to be so, Victoria will have a thriving and continuing industry on a plane far more advanced than ever before in her history.

Ever since the days when Esquimalt was a Royal naval station this community has found a substantial part of its trade coming by water. British Columbia is an export Province in an export land. For long years to come there will be a need of ships to carry these cargoes, and to return with the goods of other countries in exchange. To a degree not possible at any previous period, Canada will be in a good position to encourage that trade in Canadian hulls. For the first time in history she will have both the men and the shipyards to do so on a scale that is commensurate with the size of this country, and its growing importance in the comity of nations on two main oceans of the world.

World trade, no doubt, will not be a mushroom growth, as it will depend upon the re-establishment of connections long disrupted, or else entirely broken. On the other hand, as long as there are people to be fed, homes to be built and goods to be exchanged, trade itself will survive for satisfaction of the living needs of mankind. By every means in her power, Canada should endeavor to acquire and to hold her proper place in the world that is to be, when freedom has been restored as the birthright of nations and of men. Shipping will be a part of that, and in shipping Canada is acquiring a richly diversified experience which should stand her in right good stead. Meanwhile, it is encouraging to know that Victoria's ships are good ships, that they are succeeding each other in steady succession, and that the basic skills in a highly technical industry have been very widely learned, as it is our sincere hope they will long be retained and used.

ATTACK ON MODANE

The smashing of the railway yards at Modane, immediately on the French side of the Alps, was a shrewd blow by planes of the Royal Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force last week. Southeastern French lines tunnel to a head at Modane, crossing into Italy by a narrow rock tunnel through which traffic can be routed only at a comparatively slow rate. Naturally congestion takes place at Modane, and it was there that British bombers struck with telling effect.

Modane itself is little more than a village high up in the hills. Around it are the peaks of the mountains, looking strangely decapitated and aloof. A shallow valley folds down from the summit of the mountains, and through this valley the railway passes. Modane, in peacetime, was a customs stop, a place where engines were changed, and little more. Modane in wartime, no doubt, is a vast railway yard, a bottleneck in the flow of traffic from France south into Italy. By tearing up those tracks, smashing freight trains on the rails and blocking the tunnel, the Allies have delivered a crippling blow at this gate into Italy.

It is attacks such as this that are harassing the Germans in their efforts to move men and materials about Europe, as each fresh gate is challenged. Observers report it may be eight months before Modane will be of much use to the enemy, with its broken tunnel and its mangled rails. The same thing is happening at many a rail yard, and upon many a canal at its lockgate. In sum, the damage must amount to a serious problem in transportation for an enemy whose traffic facilities were none too good at any time. It is a slow, but wearing-down process; one which one day will bear accumulated dividends for the United Nations' side.

"MUSSOLINI'S VOICE"

Were the circumstances less serious, there would be something very comical in the efforts of the Germans to impress the world with the possession and viability of former Premier Mussolini. Images of the inception of the talking machine come at once to mind, and one thinks of that well-advertised phrase: His master's voice. For whether it is a past recording of the gentleman in one of his famous balcony scenes, or the former Premier himself, he is carrying a purely German message to the world. Fascist Italy cannot be revived by any hocus pocus.

What has disturbed the Nazis, of course, is that the grandfather, so to speak, of the new and tyrannical order in Europe has taken such a straight, hard fall that not even all of Hitler's horses could put him together again in one piece. They might produce his voice at one place, and perhaps a speech or two of his at another; but Signor Mussolini himself is a fallen idol. He could not now hold even the junior Fascist, which used to parade in the Italian equivalent of shorts. Let the Nazis blow on the ashes if they will. A fire once dead is not to be revived without fresh fuel. Tyranny is running short of fuel and Fascism has only dry rot left. The Nazis' case has grown desperate indeed when they try to restore a fallen monument; to make believe that there are no cracks in its pedestal, no patches on its sculpture. Former Premier Mussolini is now a man without a country, a voice without any words of his own.

If the human race ever abandons its privilege of saying "no," it will find itself reverting to the Stone Age under the impetus of innovations which bureaucracy miscast progress.

Nature, wiser than man, gave the horse four apends, a walk, trot, canter and gallop. Yet some men, not so strong as a horse, try to gallop through their lives without any break-step.

The provident man will let praise run in, at one car and out of the other without stopping, but he will examine blame carefully to see where in fact is the kernel of the fault, and if it can be remedied.

MONTY'S MEN

Bronzed warriors: all and some are young.

We know they can never fail.

The cause—the country that sent them forth.

Possesses the Holy Grail.

They are Monty's men! Have you heard the tale?

It surpasses song or story.

How they chased the enemy thousands of miles.

And wrapped themselves in glory.

Yes! They are Monty's men, the glorious Eighth.

They are the best fighters on foot.

One for all and all for one.

As the Musketeers of old.

Now once again they have closed the breach.

And brought their comrades through.

"Lead them their tanks and give them strength."

"Be our prayers both day and night."

All men need something to twiddle and idealize their life a little—something which they value for more than its use, and which is a symbol of their emancipation from the mere materialism and drudgery of daily life.—Theodore Parker

On the Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE GERMAN RETREAT AND OFFENSIVE

It is now clear that the Germans are retreating from Russia. They are not retreating early enough, or as they would like to have done. They are retreating under pressure and they suffer great losses in men and material. They make continual counter-attacks, but these are obviously for the purpose of rousing their armies, not for the purpose of advancing or holding ground.

The Russians say they are even throwing in some of their reserves for this purpose. But this does not change the fact—that the overall picture is of withdrawal. It is borne out by the fact that they are evacuating German nationals from the whole Ukraine.

On the other side we see that the Germans are offering a terrific resistance in Italy. From a strategic viewpoint, the concentration of their forces there seems very unwise. It has been argued by military commentators that the Germans throughout the war have been superb tacticians but wretched strategists. This is, to an extent, true. The German war plan has been bad from the beginning. But I doubt whether this explains the present behavior, which is dictated both by military and political considerations.

Some months ago the German military radio commentator, General Dietmar, compared the German situation with that of Frederick the Great in the Seven Years' War. At that time Prussia was fighting a war against a coalition, and Frederick's strategy was always to defeat the first army to appear menacing, before a common pressure could be exerted. So now, when the Anglo-American forces are appearing in Europe, they must according to General Dietmar, suffer a drastic defeat even though they may later recuperate.

The Germans must, according to this theory, use their internal position to deal blows first with the right hand and then with the left, never allowing both fronts to be equally strong at the same time.

For behind this military policy is a political strategy. That strategy is to play the Russians against the Anglo-Saxons and vice versa. Germany today is in a position where she knows she cannot win the war and is only playing her hand not utterly to lose it. And in order to play the Anglo-Americans against the Russians and vice versa, she has to confront us with facts, not with theories.

So let us ask: What is the political meaning of the withdrawal from Russia?

From the German viewpoint it means the threat that Central Europe will be open to the Red Army. And this means that, lacking an agreement between Russia and the Anglo-Americans regarding the fate of Germany, the Russians, on the spot, will decide the issue.

What is the political meaning of the terrific resistance at Salerno? It is the German intention to bring home to the Anglo-American powers the fact that they alone, without Russia, are unable to defeat the German Army.

Both facts together are designed to tell the following story: The Western powers have no chance to impose their war aims on Europe. They can only enable the Russians to impose their aims. Therefore, says the German to us, by actions instead of words—negotiate a peace before it is too late.

Now all this would be transparent and easy to deal with if we had an understanding with the Russians concerning the future of Germany and Europe. But we have not. And I am compelled to believe that the reason we have none is because the Anglo-American powers and their leaders think rhetoric counts. Neither the Russians nor the Germans do.

Both the Russians and the Anglo-Americans are considering their own national self-interest. Mr. Cordell Hull has asserted and justified it and it is in the nature of nations. It is an open secret that the Russians in dealing with the Germans are in an extremely difficult position. They have been humiliated or postponed their efforts with the President and Mr. Churchill. One can only assume that they wished to be in a better position before such a conference should occur. The best position for the Russians is at a time when we are inextricably engaged on the Continent of Europe and when the German armies are retreating from Russia. This moment is now here.

Meanwhile we have committed ourselves to the unconditional surrender of the German armies and the Russians have not. We have made the phrase into a policy in dealing with Italy. The Germans are well aware that there is no agreement between the Anglo-Americans and the Russians regarding the future of Germany and Europe. That is no doubt why they have sent—according to a recent report—the former German Ambassador to Moscow, Von der Schulenburg, to Stockholm, obviously with the object of putting out feelers to Moscow. And from Switzerland other Germans are putting out feelers in our direction, offering a change of Government in Germany in return for peace.

This is a dangerous situation. It would be dangerous if we had an agreement with Russia. And, as I see it, it will be impossible to reach an agreement without a change in our policy. If the Anglo-American powers are playing for a world hegemony, they will, I fear, get some astonishing surprises.

This interesting item was contained in a letter from Sfax: "One of our soldiers well up in front was driving a solitary truck along a new route. He did not know whether it had been cleared of mines, so he pulled up suddenly on sighting a patch of grass and flowers right across the road. On examination, the patch proved to be a thick strip of dandelions stretching from one side of the road to the other and coming to a point towards him. The driver thought there was likely to be a load of trouble under the flowers. He saw three little French boys coming towards him from a house in an olive grove near the road. He halted them and asked in his best French whether the road ahead was free from mines. The boys said it was. 'Well then, what are those for?' the soldier demanded, pointing to the strip of weeds. 'Four violets, for victory,' For the English automobiles to see," they chorused. It was really the 'V' sign, only they had said it with dandelions."

Ervin Acel writes in The New York News: "Italy's surrender and other Allied successes have created unrest in Portugal, Sweden and Turkey. In Portugal the president ordered a mobilization, and the premier stated that the government might be called upon to settle outstanding problems with foreign enemies. He meant Japan, which seized Portuguese colonies in 1942. Sweden has done a great deal of back-talking to Hitler. She could mobilize 500,000 men, and has a considerable navy in the Baltic. Turkey is anxious to have a voice at the peace table. This she can do only as an active belligerent. Turkey has vital interests in the Balkans and Western Asia."

Clubman Walter has decided to do his bit to shorten the war, and is now taking a course in electric and oxy-acetylene welding with a view to helping build ships. He told he would not mind being called Walter the welder. Mountain View High School is just one of sixteen schools in Saanich. Enrollment, September, 298 out of approximately 4500 children in the Saanich schools. Should we allow one school and one teacher to become more important than all the rest of our school system?

The people of Saanich should demand that members of the school board be interested basically in the welfare of all the children of Saanich. Their chief aim should be to provide the children with the best education possible under the present difficult conditions. We need school trustees who will not permit personalities and politics to have any influence on their decision regarding schools or teachers. Politics should never be allowed to enter into municipal affairs. We need school trustees who will behave like responsible adults.

Providing the money is available (independent with regard to physical equipment) can easily be remedied. The low tedious process of re-education must be carried out by teachers with emotional stability and patience and adequate training. Students in such a situation cannot be hired in quantities for $1.75 per month. The Saanich minimum wage for teachers.

VOTED IN NEGATIVE

Sir,—The letter of September 18 to the Minister of Education was not passed unanimously by the Saanich School Board. Two voted for it and I voted against it. I am in favor of carrying out the recommendations of the Wilson report that Dr. Thomas be relieved of his position as principal of Mount View High School, and further use be found in the educational sphere in Saanich or elsewhere for him.

It is interesting to note that ex-trustees Burridge and Tupman presented a similar recommendation to this before they resigned. Thus out of the original five trustees three with the recommendations that the principal be removed and the remaining two, one in June felt he should resign.

I question the statement that the resolution protesting the removal of Dr. Thomas from his position as principal of Mount View High School was passed unanimously by the Saanich Teachers' Association. Thirty-two of seventy-nine teachers present and from 25 per cent to 30 per cent of those present did not vote.

Remaining directors who still have one year to serve are P. W. MacKenzie and J. H. MacKenzie.

Court of Appeal

The Civil Code appeal decided the entire day yesterday and today is an interesting one.

The action upon which the appeal is founded was brought by Howard Cole against his wife for a declaration that he was the owner of fourteen British Columbia timber licenses held in trust by his wife and transferred to him.

The appellants' sole defense was that the licenses were given to her by her husband. The trial judge found in favor of the plaintiff.

Nazis Refused To Be Friendly With Italians

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 20 (AP).—Here's a story of how well German and Italian armies got along in their own before Mussolini made them outright enemies, as related by the Italian air officer who surrendered Crotona airfield to the R.A.F.

"The Germans used three strips for landing their aircraft here. They refused to use the same strip as our machines. Their officers and men lived in two hatted buildings. They cooked their own food and kept strictly to themselves. They did not appear to want to have anything to do with our men."

By contrast the Italian airmen helped the R.A.F. upon the damaged runway, unburied hidden stocks of bombs and fuel and helped mount anti-aircraft guns. They were given from Wood's Grocery some time-on-Sundays by burglars who forced open a safe door.

Someone entered the R.C.A.F. recruiting centre at 1233 Government Street by prying apart iron bars over a window early Sunday morning. Nothing was reported missing.

The Chris Coffee Shop, at 1033 Cook Street, was entered by forcing open a rear door during the week-end and $24 stolen from the till, according to police reports.

Premises Robbed

An old model Colt revolver and ammunition was stolen from Wilson A. Leathers at 1325 Government Street by burglars who pried apart bars and smashed a rear window early Sunday morning. Exit was made through the front door. Constables H. Davidson, S. McKenzie and W. Andrews, found boxes of ammunition scattered over the floor and the office safe dial battered in an attempt to force it open.

Last Call for Home Canning

We always have wound up the canning season at home by making sauerkraut. Probably the reason is because the late cabbage as a rule seems so much better and is so firm.

SAUERKRAUT
20 lbs. cabbage
1/2 lb. (1/2 cup) cooking salt
Select firm, mature heads of cabbage. Remove outer leaves; wash, well; quarter, remove core; slice very fine. Mix 5 lbs. (about 7 1/2 qts.) shredded cabbage with 2 oz. (3 1/2 tbsps.) salt, place in deep crock or tight wooden keg; tamp down firmly with wooden masher. Repeat until all cabbage is used. Press down, cover with clean white cloth, then with plate or round wooden board small enough to fit down inside crock; weight down with a clean rock to keep cabbage covered with brine that forms. Keep in a warm place, 75° to 85° F. Inspect each day; remove scum with spoon, rinse cloth in clear water. Kraut will be "cured" (appearance and taste will last 10 to 20 days, depending upon amount of cabbage and temperatures. Kraut may be left in crock or bag all winter, in a cold cellar or basement (take care to remove any scum) or it may be canned from 1 to 3 months after curing. To can: drain off juice, pack cold kraut into hot sterilized jars to 1/2 inch from top, heat juice to boiling, pour over kraut, seal, store in cool dark place. Do not process.

NOTE—Cooking salt with salt with a filler and comes in bags.

SIR KINGSLEY WOOD

The death of Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer in Great Britain's wartime Cabinet, brings to a close a long and distinguished career in public service, which began on the London County Council in 1911. It was under Sir Kingsley Wood that Britons raised the highest volume of taxation that they have ever contributed to a public cause, and to him went much of the credit for the stable fiscal policies which have kept the United Kingdom on an even keel.

For twenty-five years a Conservative member for Woolwich West in the House of Commons, Sir Kingsley Wood had a wide experience in public life. He served in succession as parliamentary secretary to the Ministries of Health and Education, was Postmaster-General in 1931, and later became Minister of Health. In 1938, he was appointed Secretary for Air; and in May, 1940, became Chancellor of the Exchequer, one of the most responsible posts in the Government.

Although he was for almost two years a member of the War Cabinet, Sir Kingsley Wood reached his greatest success as Chancellor of the Exchequer; a position he held before the Battle of Britain and all through the trying early years of the war. He showed both decision and patience, and was credited with no little share in the mastery manner in which the United Kingdom has weathered the most difficult years in modern history. His passing will create a gap in the ranks of those men who, whatever their personal feelings, sank all private ambitions to administer to the common good. In Canada and throughout the Empire the death of Sir Kingsley Wood will be regretted sincerely.

CHLORINATION

It will be noted as a somewhat ironical circumstance that chlorination, held out to this community by the Minister of Health and Pensions as a matter of secret and urgent necessity in view of possible machinations by our enemy in the Pacific, may arrive for Victoria householders late this year, or shall we say at Christmas? More than four years have elapsed since the outbreak of the world conflict. From a position of quasi dominance, the enemy has been driven successively back until today he is chiefly concerned with his own possessions, and that at very considerable distance from these coasts.

There was a time when the Japanese were at liberty on Vancouver Island, the proved with the unproved, the loyal with those whose affiliations left more than a little something in doubt. There was a time when Japanese submarines were reported to be making sporadic shelling attacks on the Pacific coast of North America. There was a time when it was suggested officially that an enemy plane had attempted to sow fire in an Oregon forest. There was a time when major coast communities went under a full blackout. One might have understood chlorination then.

Several months elapsed, however, before Ottawa developed its serious case of "urgent necessity" months in which the Minister in charge told us of secret reports of an implied, but not revealed, harrowing nature. We were urged to chlorinate our water system at once. "At once" now develops as some period many months after that time, and probably by Christmas. Presumably, if it is not done now the war might end before we chlorinate, and we should have come through at least a ministerial alarm without any protection at all.

MR. CHURCHILL'S SPEECH

There was a great deal of comfort for the United Nations, and very little for the enemy, in Mr. Churchill's address at Westminster yesterday. Although saddened by the loss of a member of his Cabinet, the late Sir Kingsley Wood, the Prime Minister made his customary workmanlike report on the state of a conflict he had said from the first would be prolonged and bitter. It was a long address with a great deal of substance in it, but four salient factors stood out with emphasis: the necessity for continued close co-operation among the United Nations, the substantial shutting off of the U-boat campaign in the Atlantic; characterization of the Mediterranean as the third front, and not the second, and the prediction that United Nations' air power will dominate all of the skies of Germany in 1944.

Mr. Churchill indicated that earnest steps are being taken to bring about a fuller and closer working co-operation between the Western nations and Russia. He paid high tribute to the steadfast, continued and now triumphant successes of the Russian armies in the field, hearing the climax of their most outstanding victory of the war in the East. He left no doubt of the desire of the British Empire and the United States to join the battle in the West in a second major front so soon as preparations vital to its success can be completed. Meanwhile he characterized what is happening in Italy and the Mediterranean as a third front, one precedent to the great closing campaigns of the war.

Turning to the Atlantic, Mr. Churchill made it clear that not a single Allied merchant ship had been sunk in convoy in this huge area during the last four months. U-boat parks had been hunted mercilessly down on their targets, and hunted down with grim and unrelenting efficiency. By air and by sea, patrol forces had worked out a method which was proving successful against the four-year-long campaign by Germany to break the flow of men and supplies across the Atlantic. He indicated, too, that that fight was not ended, while mastery had been clearly established at the moment.

Dealing with Italy, Mr. Churchill made no attempt to gloss over the difficulties that had been encountered. He said that the weight of the Allied assault at Salerno bridgehead had been cut fairly fine; but happily the attack was succeeding, with the Germans again forced to retreat. He placed the seizure of Sardinia by the Italians, and of Corsica by the Free French in

From an editorial in PM: "If the United States State Department is going to take credit for the Badoglio surrender, it is going to have to take credit also for the fact that its soft glove policy gave the Germans time to reinforce the Wehrmacht in Italy sufficiently to take Rome under our nose."

Some people quite frankly could make out little enough from the inquiry, and nothing whatever from an official report which marched both north and south at the same time. An affair which a school inspector could have settled—and Saanich has a good one—was blown up out of all proportion to the reported facts in the case. A great deal of opinion, pro and con, has been aired, and somewhat to the detriment of Saanich as a whole.

For numbers of practical reasons, the matter should be disposed of finally, and pupils and staffs in Saanich schools permitted to go on with their work in an atmosphere more conducive to education.

Any attempt by the Saanich School Board to run the Department of Education must fail; as would an attempt by the Department of Education to dictate any matter that happens to lie within the competence of an elected body of the people. Similarly, neither teachers nor parents can expect to have to themselves an undisputed last word. Education comes from co-operation of living forces working in harmony, and not in discord. The sooner Saanich schools are left alone to get on with their work, the better it will be for all concerned.

If there are some in Saanich who are looking for an election issue, they would be well advised to seek it somewhere else than in the trusteeship of the future careers and lives of young people, whose tuition is entrusted to the state. Tuition must go on.

SEPTEMBER MOSAICS

Autumn is nowhere more remarkable than for its mosaics, which, rich in pattern and color, are to be seen everywhere on the surface of the ground. From the floor of the forest come the pungent odors of fallen leaves and deepening pine needles, of nut-brown bracken and moist moss. Along every woodland path there is a thickening carpet, soft to the feet and aromatic with the blended scents of dying vegetation. It is September, to the poorest nose.

It is September to the eye, too. The colors of the undergrowth are now upon the ground. They form those grand mosaics which lead the eye to many strange infinities: Lilliput in a single leaf, brown aisles between the boles of endless steaming conifers, the lichen-lands that blossom upside down. It is a scene of vast variety, beyond the scope of any mortal eye.

Autumn makes its mosaics out of many things. There is the play of sunlight and of shade beneath a row of slender birch trees. What fretted filigrees are there, turning a cold city pavement into a gallery of finer etchings than the world has ever seen in print. There are the patterns that the leaves make with the grassy boulevard, with russet rings around each shedding tree. Under a carmine-berried ash tree Nature has arranged a pattern no artist could contrive, by dropping pointed golden leaves at random, one by one.

Winter, with its rains and cold winds, will bring urban street traffic to the peak of its congestion in Canadian cities. Staggered hours of employment have been suggested as one possible remedy.

Many a man treats life as if it were a horse race; a brisk walk to the paddock, a look at the likely numbers, a moment of excitement hanging on the rail, and then a long-drawn harangue against "fate." Fate seldom gambles.

THIS IS THE HOUR

September, 1939.

The die is cast, and now the hour divide—Bondsmen of brutal force confront the free Where will you stand whose lips have oft declared Your solemn pledge to aid Democracy?

This is the destined hour your seeds forested, Proprietor and poet of olden time foresew When from the depths of night, the beast in man Proclaims the ancient rule of fang and claw

The walls of time seem trembling to their fall, The silent lightning strikes from peak to peak The war gods hold an anguished world in thrall

In gathering darkness can you sense the Light, The agonies of souls that shall at last prevail When from this chaos springs a world reborn—The long-lost vision of the Holy Grail?

Where will you stand? Stretched on the twisted cross We hear once more the voice of Freedom cry: Will thou forsake me in my hour of need? Behold my children where they bleed and die!

Take up the sword! There are things worse than death

To live a slave beneath the despotic hate To see truth vanquished by a ruthless lie Take up the sword! This is the hour of fate!

Churchill's Speech

going to answer very precisely and exhaustively even before we break off for the midday refreshment. We were sympathetic to those difficulties, but to all advances we made the reply: Surrender must be unconditional.

On August 18 an Italian envoy, an officer with the rank of general called on our Ambassador at Madrid, Sir Samuel Hoare, with credentials proving he came with full authority from Marshal Badoglio and that he came to say that when the Allies landed in Italy, the Italian Government was prepared to join them against Germany. When could they come?

I was at this time not entirely by accident at Quebec for the conference and I was in closest contact with the President. The Foreign Secretary was with me and I accompanied by an amply equipped staff and secretariat through whom hourly touch could be maintained with my colleagues in the War Cabinet. The President and I therefore were able to act together and give prompt guidance in any emergency.

With the approval of the War Cabinet it was decided that Eisenhower should lead British and American staff officers to meet the Italian envoy at Lisbon.

We, at once informed Premier Stalin of what was in progress. On August 19, a meeting in Lisbon took place. The envoy was informed we would only accept unconditional surrender. Military terms embodied in this act of surrender—no so much was conditions as the directions following the act of surrender—which had been prepared some weeks earlier, after prolonged discussion between Washington, London and Eisenhower's headquarters, were now placed before the envoy.

He did not oppose those terms, "drastic though they were, but replied the purpose of his visit was to discuss how Italy could join the United Nations in the war against Germany.

He also asked how the terms could be executed in face of German opposition. The British and American officers replied they were empowered only to discuss unconditional surrender. They were, however, authorized to add this was our decision we took at Quebec: that if at any time, anywhere, and in any circumstances any Italian forces or people were found by our troops to be fighting, the Germans we would immediately give them all possible aid. On August 20, the Italian General arrived with these military terms expressing the act of unconditional surrender and with full warnings that civil and administrative terms would be presented later.

He then made his way back to Rome with great secrecy and dispatch. He promised to lay these terms before his Government and to bring back their answer to Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters by August 31.

In the interval another Italian General arrived bringing with him, as his credentials, no less a person than Gen. Carlo De Vito, V.C., one of our most famous military figures whom the Italians captured two years ago through a forced landing in the Mediterranean. This second mission did not however affect the course of events.

On August 31 the Italian envoy returned. He had General Eisenhower's representative at Syracuse. The Italian Government was willing to accept the terms unconditionally, but they did not see how they could carry them out in the teeth of the heavy German forces gathered about Rome. And many other points throughout the country.

We did not doubt the sincerity of the Italian people, nor the Government, but we were not able to reveal our military plans for the invasion of Italy. The great difficulty was that the Italians were powerless and could be landed at any point, and we could give them no aid.

We therefore turned the situation from the moment we dropped our bombs and gave them the best chance of extracting themselves from the German grip. This meant an armistice should be accepted only at that moment or just before our main descent.

We would have done more if it had been possible to help this unhappy Government who was beset on all sides by insuperable problems and who have since allied both with courage and good faith.

PLANNED LANDING BY AIR AT ROME

We offered and prepared to land an American airborne division at Rome at the same time the armistice was declared in order to fight off two German armored divisions massed outside it to help Italians, but owing to the German investment of Rome, airfields which took place in the last day or two before the announcement of the Italian Government we were unable to carry out this part of the plan.

Unconditional surrender of course comprises everything. But not only a special provision for the surrender of war criminals included in the longer terms but particular stipulation was made for the surrender of Signor Mussolini.

It was not, however, possible to arrest for him to be delivered specially and separately before the armistice and our main landing took place, for this would certainly have disclosed the intentions of the Italian Government to the enemy.

The Italian position has been that although an internal revolution had taken place in Italy, they were still the Allies of Germany carrying on a common cause with them. This was a position very difficult to maintain day after day with the passage of the Gestapo pointing at the names of so many necks.

We have every reason to believe that Mussolini was being kept under strong guard in a secure place. Certainly it was very much in the interests of the Badoglio Government to make sure he did not escape.

Mussolini himself was reported to have declared he believed he was being delivered to the Allies. This was certainly the intention and had taken place, but for circumstances unhappily beyond our control.

HEAVY PARACHUTE DESCENT SUCCEEDED

The measures which the Badoglio Government took were carefully conceived and the best they could do to hold Mussolini, but they did not provide against so heavy a parachute descent as the Germans made at the particular point where he was confined.

The stroke was one of great daring and was conducted with a heavy force and certainly shows there may be possibilities of this kind which are open in modern war.

I do not think there was any slackness or breach of faith on the part of the Badoglio Government and they and our generals had their eyes on the prize—Mussolini's capture—had orders to shoot Mussolini if there was any attempt at a rescue—but they failed in their duty, having regard to the larger and considerable German forces who descended upon them from the air who undoubtedly would have held them responsible for his health and safety.

So much for that. The terms were signed at Syracuse on the night of September 3 and from that time forward the Italian people passed secretly between Rome and Allied Headquarters.

This was a very difficult matter as great numbers of guns have been taken to the Italian front. The Italian Government had studied the terms authorized Gen. Eisenhower to sign them in their headquarters accordingly did that, not only on behalf of the United States and Great Britain but on behalf of the Soviet Government and the United Nations.

I have seen it said that forty days of previous time were lost in these negotiations and that in consequence British and American blood was needlessly shed around Salerno.

TERMS CRITICISM AS ILLE-FOUNDED

This criticism is as ill-founded as it is unwarranted. The time of our attack upon Italy was fixed without the slightest reference to the attitude of the Italian Government, and the armistice was signed long before negotiations with them had taken place even before the fall of Mussolini.

The landing craft were the sole decision of the factors, nothing to do with these negotiations were in progress time over.

The Italian people have already suffered terribly. Now their own beautiful homeland must become a battlefield for the German war machine. The British Empire and the United States march forward in Italy as they shall march, the Italian people will be rescued from a state of slavery and degradation and enabled in due course to regain their rightful place among the free democracies of the modern world.

I cannot touch upon the matter of Italy without expressing my sympathy to a question I have just proposed to make a mistake. I grant that under many circumstances it appears that it cannot go on, but I am confident that the Italian people will be rescued from a state of slavery and degradation and enabled in due course to regain their rightful place among the free democracies of the modern world.

I am sure the British, American and Russian peoples, who have suffered measureless waste, peril and bloodshed twice in a quarter of a century through the teutonic urge for domination, will this time take steps to put it beyond the power of Prussia or all Germany to come at them again.

Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism are the two main elements in German aggression and the world is to be spared a third still more frightful conflict.

Here are the two obvious practical targets for us to fix at: Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism. Let us smash every gun, let us smash every man who will maintain them again.

The twin roots of all of our evils—Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism—must be exterminated until this is achieved, there are no sacrifices we will not make no length in violence to which we will not go.

INVASION NEAR NAPLES DARING

I now come back to the purely military sphere. The invasion of Italy by the Allies was the most daring amphibious operation we have yet launched or that ever has been launched on a similar scale. It was a bold move, a move of the extreme range of shore-based aircraft flying from Palermo and other conquered Sicilian fields. Until we gained refueling stations and landing places our single-engine fighters squandered fuel, but a quarter hour's activity over the battlefield area.

We could not, therefore, so far north than Naples unless we dispensed with the aid of land-based aircraft.

Results show that the enemy has been worsted. Our main forces are fully ashore and the Eighth Army is coming into action in the places. We have recovered the initiative: we are able now to advance northward on a broad front by the Italian Government and its forces, to comply with the armistice conditions.

There is no doubt whatever on which side the sympathy, hopes and efforts of the Italian nation now lie.

In Sardinia, for instance, which until lately was considered a major prize in itself, four Italian divisions have driven out the German garrison. American forces now have landed in their support. The French have landed in Corsica. This is the first time the French have been in action for the liberation of their home territory.

SECOND FRONT ALREADY EXISTS

I call this front which we opened first in Africa and in Italy, and now in Italy the third front. A second front which already exists potentially and which is rapidly gathering weight has not yet been engaged. But it is here, holding force in its front, and I am not going to hint at the moment when it will be engaged. But the second front exists and is a main pre-occupation already with the enemy.

On the day when we and our American Allies judge to be the right time this front will be thrown into play and the mass invasion of the continent from the west, in combination with the invasion from the south will begin.

The House may be absolutely certain that the present Government will never be swayed or overborne by any untrained agitation, however natural, or pressure, however well meant, in matters of this kind. It will not be forced or coerced into undertaking vast operations against our better judgment in order to gain political unanimity or a cheer from any quarter.

The bloodiest portion—make no mistake about it—the bloodiest portion of this war for Great Britain and the United States lies ahead of us. Neither the House nor His Majesty's Government will shrink from that ordeal.

I am glad to say that several important arrangements have been made at Quebec and in consultation with the War Cabinet. First, the House of Commons will be asked to authorize Gen. Eisenhower to sign them in their headquarters accordingly did that, not only on behalf of the United States and Great Britain but on behalf of the Soviet Government and the United Nations.

From Sergeant To Commander

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 21.—Wing Cmdr. R.S.M. (Bob)ie Turnbull, D.F.M., a bomber pilot who broke the Canadian Air Force record by rising from sergeant to wing commander in eleven months, is the new officer commanding the Canadian Bomber Squadron, a Halifax unit in the Canadian Bomber Group.

Turnbull, whose home is at Cowan, Sask., is only twenty-four. He is the first graduate of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan to reach the rank of wing commander after joining the service as an A-2.

Bob got his pilot's wings late in 1940. Made seventeen operations on Whitley bombers and then switched to Halifax. After winning the D.F.M. he was commissioned as a pilot officer in December 1941, skipped the rank of flying officer and became successful flight lieutenant, squadron leader and wing commander during 1942.

In a further message to his family, Turnbull wrote: "I am glad to hear that you are all well. I am still in the thick of it."

Her family is now settled for the winter in the States. "Why did you do this?" asked the worried mother. "I'm not going back. I'm not going back."

They told me it was dangerous.

DON'T OVERHEAT KEEP FLAMES UNDER CONTROL!

It is patriotic to prolong the useful life of your kitchen equipment. It is also plain common sense. The durability of Wear-Ever Aluminum Cooking Utensils is well known. They last many years with proper care. Guard your Wear-Ever well. Don't overheat. It is also patriotic to save Power, Gas and Fuel in wartime.

A Few Simple Rules
on the care of Aluminum Utensils
Wash in hot soapy water promptly after use, rinse with clear water and dry thoroughly; never scrape with a knife. Use a wooden spoon. Don't use steel wool on the outside of the utensil. It dulls the finish.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Stocks declined fractions to a point or more today as the market absorbed a moderate amount of profit selling inspired by last week's rise.

The urge to realize gains on recent purchases was strengthened as investors, looking for early proceedings, continued the hesitant action of Tuesday following five consecutive advances on average.

It was a slow sell-off and some of the pivotal issues showed fair recovery from the lows in the final hour.

The news appeared to have little influence on the markets, although brokerage sources suggested that Wall Street had a somewhat painful reminder of the tax situation in the Treasury's proposals for general increases in taxes.

Down 2 of a point, the Associated Press index closed at 141.10, off 10 points from its peak of 143.10 reached last week. The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 141.10, off 10 points from its peak of 143.10 reached last week.

I. Seabrook as manager.

It was reported at the meeting that horses ordered off the road by the society are still in pasture. All the horses are being closely watched.

Two horses at the race course have been humanely destroyed, it was reported.

Record Shipment of Butter in C.N. Car

MONTREAL, Sept. 22 (CP)—The record shipment for a single railway refrigerator car on one trip was established recently by the Canadian National Railways. It was announced this week by J. L. Townshend, general supervisor of perishable traffic for the National system. Moving from Winnipeg to Toronto, this overhauled refrigerator car of a type pioneered by mechanical and operating experts of the C.N.R. carried 89,900 pounds of choice butter.

Under existing conditions, restaurants are allowed to serve only one pat of butter weighing one-third of an ounce per meal per customer. On this basis the record shipment mentioned would be sufficient to take care of 431,200 dining patrons.

York Will Show Fast Action Film "Thunder Birds"

Seventy-five thousand planes will roll off American assembly lines this year over one hundred thousand in 1944. What's the story? That's the story of 20th Century-Fox's Technicolor "Thunder Birds." Soldiers of the air starting today at the York Theatre. One of the best films of the year the film tells the story of democracy's flying avengers, how they win their wings and sometimes lose their hearts in the process.

Gene Tierney one of Hollywood's most enchanting young stars, carries top billing while Preston Foster and John Hodiak head a large and imposing featured cast.

Oak Bay, Plaza Are Presenting "The 39 Steps"

If ever a film hero deserved sympathy it is Robert Donat, whose co-starring role with Madeleine Carroll in "The 39 Steps," which starts today at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres, required him to be hunted and chased from one end of the film to the other. He was tracked out of London, captured on a suspicious express train, hunted over the Highlands, chased through woods and finally, stranded upon a London seaside theatre.

But the most unusual part of all, coming at the cliff's edge of 30 to 40 feet, a great cliff, where the Canadian islanders rescue the enormous machine of the Luftwaffe. A morning March gave Mids William Beaudette directed almost nightly visits from Mosquito bombers; and there is no doubt that Berlin is on the target list for the months that lie ahead.

In the case of Hanover, fires were laid that appeared to have got the better of the fire prevention services of the enemy on the ground. The target area was well alight as successive waves of British planes made their runs over the city, and picked out their express objectives. When the last plane had turned the fires had crowned and merged, and could be seen at a considerable distance on the return journey.

A little reflection will show that what the combined air forces of the Allies can do in September will likely be redoubled by December, when all Germany can be crossed without successful interception. Mr. Churchill's hint to that effect coincides with the calendar, and is very plainly in the shape of things to come. This time it is the men of Coventry, Plymouth and Hull who will be riding to the attack, and evening a little of the score.

LEAVE IT ALONE!

Fair-minded people in Canada will concede that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has made some progress since its inception not too many years ago, in spite of upheavals and sudden changes, and what has amounted to a governmental itch to interfere. The inconstant changes of direction, the importation of pedagogues and others with little enough knowledge of a highly technical calling, and other factors have retarded much of the progress the system could have made if it had been left alone. Will Canada try that now? Will it take one good man who has grown up in the radio business, put the management of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in his hands, and leave him alone?

National and regional boards advising and counter-advancing, parliamentary and departmental inquiries, ministerial invasions of management affairs—always denied but ever recurring—have been hard on a service that had to pilot its way in a distinctly new and highly technical field. Professors for all of their erudition, or King's Counsellors with all their learning, are not perhaps the best judges of public entertainment, and that in essence is what radio broadcasting is. Nor can it be successfully argued that Parliament's guiding hand in this instance was either an understanding or a sure one.

Without looking ahead to any other country, Canada should have right at home those who have grown up with the radio, and who know its possibilities. These are very great, but such possibilities must be developed if we continue treating the nationally owned system as a cross between a political concession, and a home for men retired from wholly irrelevant professions. In Canada it has been distinctly a case of too many cooks spoiling the broth. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has been "advised" to the point where its usefulness has been curtailed and its progress retarded. Why not leave it alone, for a change?

SILENCE STILL GOLDEN

At the start of this war the public in Canada was ready enough to listen to any reasonable proposal made for the same governance of the country and for the fullest and most effective prosecution of our share in the conflict. The same spirit exists today, but it has been driven somewhat into the background by the succession of favorable changes in favor of the United Nations in the long, grim struggle. Public heart has by no means lessened, but public caution certainly has. There is a danger in that.

There has been proof enough since the war started that the ears of the enemy are extremely far-reaching. A chance word picked up here, a laugh or chuckle there, when put together with what eyes and ears will tell any acute individual may convey considerably more to the enemy than the public realizes. Silence is still golden in public conversation, in the press, on the radio and everywhere information that would help the enemy can be gleaned.

The average individual is apt to ask wherein does this concern him. The answer is to be found in the Intelligence services of this country where the danger of a misplaced word is very fully appreciated. Nobody needs to talk of troop movements, of units, of equipment, of ship movements, or any of those things which can be gist to the listener's mill. The idle disclosure of seemingly unimportant trifles of information to casual acquaintances is a prolific source of real and actual damage to our side in the war. Through optimism, the habit grows. It should be checked. Chatter sells men's lives.

GOVERNMENTAL NEWSPAPERS?

A commentator in a Mainland journal envisions the day when there may be Socialist government in various parts of Canada, and government-owned newspapers to carry their message to the people. Well, Alberta under a Social Credit Administration tried that. It was not a distinguished success. The fact is that if a newspaper ever confines itself to one expression of life to the neglect of all others it ceases to be a newspaper and becomes a propaganda sheet no matter how sonorous or imposing may be its title. When governments have made a distinguished success of statecraft their primary problem will be solved. Until that day perhaps they had better continue to work at it, because very few of them are perfect yet.

France Kept Alive by Its Patriots, Says Commandant

"After three years of agony, the world is conscious today of the continued existence of France, kept alive by efficient underground sabotage and patriots, and it is General de Gaulle's mission not only to continue by the British side but to co-ordinate resistance on French soil," Commandant Gabriel Bonneau, soldier of France and acting delegate to Canada of the French Committee for National Liberation, told the Canadian and Rotary Clubs at a joint luncheon Thursday in the Empress Hotel.

Attended by well over 200 members and guests of the two clubs, the meeting was the first of a series of talks to be given by Commandant Bonneau, who is now in Canada on a mission to co-ordinate resistance on French soil. He is a member of the French Committee for National Liberation, and is acting as a delegate to Canada of the French Committee for National Liberation, and is now in Canada on a mission to co-ordinate resistance on French soil.

"The men of 1918 had had to pay a heavy price for their errors, the commandant said, in telling the truth 'about my country'."

"France has suffered from hunger to such an extent that it was going on much longer and would be destroyed. She suffers not only from hunger but from the breaking up of her homes."

"On the Belgian-German front there were only ninety-one French divisions, of which many were second-line, too old and ill-equipped, nine British and two Polish divisions. Russia had the benefit of one year to draw lessons from the campaign in France. Our army is a defeat such as awaits any army insufficiently armed and prepared."

"The French want the four freedoms, they must insist on great security. They hope for an international court of arbitration, international agreement and police to guarantee protection to the little countries, Commandant Bonneau declared."

"France can be a strong partner she has had wide experience with the German problem, but without the deep conviction of the French nation that it is her peace man, there can be no peace. Our countries share in realization of this," he said.

Commandant Bonneau, who escaped to Egypt in 1940, and has been fighting on many fronts in this war, has had wide diplomatic experience as well. He also spoke to the Women's Canadian Club Thursday afternoon.

Navy League Needs Funds to Extend Sea Cadet Quarters

"Navy officers in the East are loud in the praise of the Rainbow division of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets; they seem to excel in signalling, and I am especially pleased that in every enemy action in which Canadian seamen have been recruited for bravery, a former cadet has either been decorated or mentioned in dispatches," R. E. Gillard, managing secretary of the Navy League of Canada, said in an interview at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Gillard is in Victoria to discuss the possibility of raising badly needed funds for the extension of present facilities. J. R. E. Millen, assistant sea cadet co-ordinator, will join him today.

"The sea cadet movement is a continuing project of great benefit to boys from twelve to seventeen. Before the war we had less than 3,000. Now over 4,000 have gone into the services, 12,000 are enrolled and we want still more."

An important new project being sponsored by the league is the collection of 5,000 pairs of petroleum-impregnated socks, which can save countless sailors from immersion foot.

Mr. Gillard told how one forty shipwrecked men were brought in to Halifax and the Navy League had put in urgent calls to Toronto and other points and members had procured ice-bags and other equipment to give the men treatment which would save them from gangrene. By 7 in the morning more than enough supplies had been procured. Now spiral bandages impregnated with a pound of special petroleum jelly each were to be placed in lifeboats.

Two million sailors have been saved in various hospitals of the Navy League, and 24 hospital ships are now working in the world. Prince Robert House here will have an extension costing some $130,000 ready in about a month.

Sleeping accommodation in the past six months had already exceeded that of all last year, and now given had increased tremendously. Naval officials were here in their praise of the work done at Prince Robert House and of the league as a whole, he said.

Glancing Over Sport

THE DAY'S ROUND-UP

There's one race better at the Willows track which really is honest, the answers to the name of Mrs. E. W. Morris, of Winnipeg. The other day she cashed in one of her tickets and after leaving the ticket she discovered that the man who paid out had tossed in five dollars for much. The Winnipeg lady returned immediately to the ticket, explained her mission, and returned the five-spot. There's not one person in a hundred who would do that. This corner is sorry to hear the news of the death in North Africa of Sgt. Pilot "Teddy" Robinson, former well-known athlete. We all knew him as "Teddy" on the rugby field and the basketball court, two sports he loved as well. During his teaching days at the University School he was a frequent visitor to the sports room. Many a time we lapped up a few "suds" with him while he played billiards at the club. Our regrets go out to his wife and members of his family. Another narrow victory placed the Yankees within reach of their seventh flag in the last eight years of campaigning in the American League. It won't be long now before McCarthy's crew takes the pennant to the flag pole in the big stadium in New York. Jockeys Alex Haller and Billy Secum are running neck and neck for the riding honors at the Oak Bay racing strip. The champion for the meet will, undoubtedly, be decided on the final day—next Monday afternoon.

ODDS AND ENDS

Officials of the British Columbia Lacrosse Association will gather this evening to decide on the provincial playoff games for the various divisions. The annual "Hockey" game between the British Columbia Lacrosse Association and the American Lacrosse Association will be played at the Victoria Sports Ground on Saturday. The game will be a "best of three" series. The first game will be played at 7:30 p.m. and the second at 8:30 p.m. The third game will be played at 9:30 p.m. if necessary. Glancing Over Sport

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE DAY'S ROUND-UP

The big hockey bubble is going to burst soon from official headquarters "somewhere in Canada." Rumors which have fanned the ice from time to time are fading fast into oblivion and the situation is beginning to clear so we can see ahead a little. Although nothing has been released officially, your scrivener has a sneaking hunch that the hockey picture will look something like this when "the boys in on the know" release the data to the news-press: The Army team will be playing out of Nanaimo; the Navy will be stationed here at the Willows; the Royal Canadian Air Force at Vancouver or New Westminster; and the Victoria Machinery Depot will also be competing here. That hunch may turn out to be all wrong, but we will stick by it for the present.

As far as we are concerned this afternoon's programme at the Willows is the most important of the two weeks' racing. The Daily Colonist-Mandarin highlights the card and we feel it our duty to pick the first three horses in order. It's a tough field, much tougher than last year, when J. D. stepped out and nabbed the winner while everybody sat around and laughed. But the laughs froze on their faces when Patage came sailing home like a Comet Fleet to pay a good price.

Here's my selection:

1. Killarney J.
2. Bonanza
3. Chief Ritchie
4. Sunny Park

ODDS AND ENDS

Just last Spring we had Art Rice-Jones playing the game of his life in the net for the Victoria Army in the Allan Cup final against the Ottawa Commandos. Art is now far from the local hockey scene at the present time, for he is "somewhere in England" and carries the rank of lieutenant, being a graduate from Gordon Head last Summer. The troops have to be searched around for another top-ranking goaltender for the coming campaign if they want to go places. This columnist knows one fellow who is doing all right for himself by the races at the Willows. To date he has cleaned up over $1,000 and expects to increase his earnings before the curtain falls on British Columbia racing next Monday evening.

During the past six years many well-known "touts" have been hustled off Victoria and Vancouver tracks. The racing association has been weeding them out for a long time. Of course, there are still a few of them around the track, but they are "house of the penny ante" class, the calibre who would rather go to jail than work for a living.

Here's a few hockey stars who should be given recognition when it comes to placing names in Kingston's Hall of Fame: Bill Cowley, one of the greatest play-makers in the history of the game; Bill Cook, Aurel Joliat, the one-time 135-pound dynamo of the Montreal Canadiens; Nels Stewart and Hooley Smith, two of the game's most enduring stars. Buck Kilham, coach of the Navy last year, was the Cardinal who would rather hit the power in the wood series for the Yankees to cope with Al Falk, veteran bowler and golfer, talk me his fairway game is more than satisfactory these days for an "old man." Al boomed his way around Colwood recently in 77 and traveled over the tough Gorge layout in 84. That's pretty good golf for an old man, Joe.

FROM HERE AND THERE

In between innings with the Germania, a bunch of American divers have pepped up the ancient and revered game of cricket with a liberal application of baseball strategy, which has left Brits puzzled and amazed. And it happened right in London the other day. Resolved to live up to cricket which seemed to the Yanks the most ancient thing outside church, members of the United States Eighth Air Force raised bat and ball in the best Bronx manner. This caused The Daily Mail to term a match between two air force stations "the most remarkable in the history of the game."

This evening, Barney Olsen, manager of the Willows Arena, will throw open the doors to the skating public for another season. According to Barney everything is in tip-top condition and lovers of the frozen surface will find a smooth sheet of ice awaiting them.

The plight of the New York Yankees was hailed temporarily for another day when the Tigers need them out yesterday with "Dixie" Trout doing some masterful hurling. Well, the flag chase in the American circuit will be decided over the week-end, you can bet your last dime on that, for McClellan's team will be the one to beat.

Congratulations to this country's first world champion, Rex Carey, former British Columbia middleweight boxing champion, on receiving the M.C. for bravery in the short-lived Battle of Britain.

Hi Rythm Captures Feature Gallop

Scores Fourth Straight Win at Willows—Colonist 'Cap Today

Definitely establishing herself as the most consistent winner of the present meeting at the Willows racing strip and displaying plenty of class, Hi Rythm, seven-year-old mare owned by Miss R. Bain, yesterday scored her fourth straight triumph on the popular five-furlong enclosure.

Going to the gate with the heavy impost of 135 pounds, the biggest weight carried by any winner on British Columbia tracks this season, Hi Rythm was well handled by Jockey Johnny Hruschak and won handily. The race was the Nanaimo Handicap, feature gallop on another fine running programme.

Winning the Victoria-based thoroughbred, second choice in the past meeting, Hi Rythm gained ground on the outside on the home-ward journey and displayed enough speed to take the place position. Riverworth was third.

Making it two straight in as many days of running, Paddock, who always shows a liking for the going at the Willows, came right back at the form of his win on Thursday. He scored in the fifth race at our main and, one-sixteenth, Little Gloomy, always well up, was second and Marion Somers was third. Cento, the favorite, was fourth in a field of seven horses.

Jockey Vic Bovine brought Ever Star a three-to-one shot to the wire in the initial gallop. The winner went on right after leaving the gate and won easily. Pipe Dream will back in the party tonight, closed last to take the place position. Be Mine was third.

NORTH RETURN BIGGEST WIN PRICE

Strich, with Apprentice Rider Billy Slocum in the post, took the second race of the afternoon and returned $13.50 to $1.00 for the day's longest win price. Jack locally-owned bangtail turned in a good effort and finished right behind the winner. Bahak and $14.00 for a 62 place pastboard. The heavily-backed favorite, was third.

Opus, the odds-on favorite scored in the third gallop at five and one-half furlongs. Quick to break, the winner pulled away from the field and won in the clear. Lady Papan, always closest to the winner, was second. Shantion Doh took the show-off of the pot.

Sunny Monday made his move going down the back stretch, after disposing of the leaders registered an easy triumph in the fourth race at the even mile. Nappon had enough speed to take care of the others. John B was third.

Second choice in the mutual play, Golden Belt, with Billy Slocum aboard, won the seventh and final gallop of the afternoon. Sinter the favorite, took the place position and Nabada was third.

Slocum was the top rider of the day with three winners, while Vic Bovine piloted two home in front.

Al Haller and Johnny Hruschak had a leg-up on the other winners. Daily Double—Ever Star and Strich returned $45.00, while the quinnella wager in the seventh race paid $6.25.

COLONIST HANDICAP IS TODAY'S FEATURE

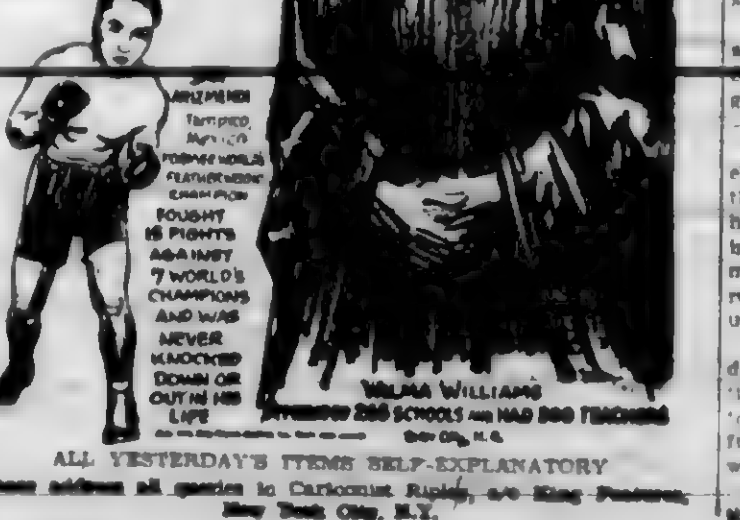

Feature race on today's card, final Saturday of racing on British Columbia tracks this season, is the Colonist Handicap at six furlongs and thirty yards. Top handicap stars now stable at the Willows are slated to go to the gate in this event. Overnight entries include: Palliser, 1943 winner; Gold Clock, Killarney J., Franklin D., Sunny Park, Monarch, Chief Ritchie, Ebony Latch, Stevenson Bill, Ronco and Winnamuck.

Six other events round out an excellent card, with first post time 2:45 o'clock.

Afternoon Skate Session Off To Open Up Tonight

IT was announced yesterday by Barney Olsen, manager of the Willows Arena, that due to the hot weather the opening of the skating season has been put off until this evening at 8:15. The previously released schedule called for the opening this afternoon at 3:30, but Mr. Olsen figures that the weather the last few days is just a little too warm to ask the public to move indoors of an afternoon. This evening's session will last two full hours and a large turn-out is expected at the ice plant.

Grid Game Set Today

Regina, Winnipeg Clash in Winner

REGINA, Sept. 24 (CP)—Their heavy training for Saturday's Rugby opener against Winnipeg R.C.A.F. here always completed, the All-Service Roughriders have named a starting line-up.

The backfield includes three speedy linemen, George Cullen, Ken Charlton and Joe Turner. In the other halfback spot will be George Smith, of the R.C.M.P., who took some of the planning while Jimmy Kinney will be quarterback. Charlton is likely to be on the bulk of the kicking.

In the line, Mattie Williams and Johnny Hammond, former Winnipeg boys will be at guard with Dr. Irwin Bain, formerly of Queens University, and Steve Cheiko playing tackle. The ends will be Gordie Milton and Sammie Rodie. The latter, a widely known, football pitcher who possesses a mere pair of hands for pass receiving.

Don Kind will start at centre with Playing Coach Dean Griffing planning to sit on the bench "unless the going gets tough."

Griffing disputes Winnipeg's claim that the R.C.A.F. line will outplay Regina. "These aren't schoolboys in our line," he hints.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24 (CP)—Although they are few, the breakaway runners in his backfield, Corey Reg Thrillall, of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, a confident his club will give any team in the Western Inter-provincial Rugby Football League an interesting sixty minutes on the gridiron this Fall.

Preparing his club for the opening game of the league's nine-game schedule in Regina tomorrow, Thrillall said last night "we have not any backfielders of the speed-ball variety, but we'll have plenty of power to throw at either the Regina All-Service Roughriders or the Winnipeg United Services."

Burrards Beat Fishmen, 13-7

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP)—Vancouver Burrards took a long first-half lead over New Westminster Salmonbellies tonight and coasted to a 13-7 victory over the fishmen to tie up the best-of-seven game inter-city box lacrosse finals at two games each. Next game will be played at New Westminster Monday.

Burrards outscored the one-time Mann Cup holders, 7-1 in the opening quarter and then after lead to 12-0 in the half. Salmonbellies scored four and held Burrards scoreless in the third, but their two-goal closing rush in the final quarter was not good enough as Burrards also added another counter.

Red Canadian was high scorer for the Vancouver squad with four goals, and Bill Dickinson and Jimmy Douglas had two each for Salmonbellies.

Bagby Wants to Leave Cleveland

ATLANTA, Sept. 24 (CP)—There's nothing wrong with Jim except a "stupid" arm, said Cleveland's manager, Ray Bagby.

Thus the all-gamer winner of 1920 disposed of young Jim Bagby's squabble with Manager Lou Boudreau, which the youthful fan-baiter declared had rather take a pay cut elsewhere than work another season for Cleveland.

Defending his son as the equal of any living baseball pitcher, the Old general—and Boudreau in particular—"don't work their pitchers right."

"I pitched every fourth day," the elder Bagby says, "and that's what they ought to do with Jim. Pitch him every fourth day, or maybe once in a while every fifth day, for a month or six weeks. Then let him rest for a week and when he's rested up, do the same thing again."

Otherwise, he continues, "a pitcher doesn't know how to keep in condition. Not knowing when he's going to start a game, he doesn't know from one day to the next whether to work his arm or not."

Demoran Pitches 2-0 Victory for Seattle

Limits San Francisco to Two Hits And Rainiers Even Up Series

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24 (CP)—Right-hander Joe Demoran pitched two-hit baseball while his team came through with timely batting in two innings today to give the Seattle Rainiers a 2-0 victory over the San Francisco Seals and even up the post-season series for the President's Cup of the Pacific Coast League at one game apiece.

While Demoran was limiting the locals to an infield single in the first inning, and a hit to centerfield in the fourth, his teammate, Centre-fielder Lloyd Christopher, lofted one of the offerings of Bob Joyce over the left-field fence for a home run in the fifth.

The Rainiers scored their other run in the sixth inning when Second Baseman Ford Mullins, singled to left, reached second on a sacrifice bunt by Joe Dobbins, shortstop.

Joyce, ace right-hander for the Seals, pitched better than ordinary baseball himself, allowing five hits. The Seals, however, managed to get only three men on base and only one reached second.

Frank Thompson will be the starting pitcher for Seattle tomorrow, and Ray Targert for the Seals. Both are right-handers.

Sports Roundup

By MUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP)—Starting off right: On the first night of bowling in a Chicago ladies' league, Laura Stelmacher came through with a series of 205-234-251-710, the highest score for any Chicago woman in eight years. YOU PICK 'EM

Arthur Metherly, Yankees—Bud is the kind of player who might be a series star or a bust, depending on how he's hitting against south-paw, who usually trouble him. Once hit 572 at Wollman and Mary but it's safe to say he won't do that at Yankee Stadium. He was a .306 hitter at Newark last season and currently is clotting .298 for the Yanks.

Stan Musial, Cardinals—Stan started out three years ago as a left-handed pitcher at Daytona Beach but soon saw the error in his ways. Never allowed in a minor league long enough to win an official batting title but is a clutch for the National League crown with a .356 average. Also leads the league in doubles and triples and has racked thirteen homers. Not so hot as he used to be.

SHORTS AND KILLS

Duke Sipe, Cincinnati farmhand who hit .445 for Birmingham this season should have more trouble with umpires. He can neither speak nor hear... and Paul Florence, head-man of the Braves, sees him as the logical successor to two old-time stars who were injured and dismissed. The Reds' Billy Haw and Luster "Dumpty" Taylor of the Giants.

BOTTLE-FED PIGLETS

MELVIN La Sept 24 (AP)—A 67-year-old woman raised 23 mountain piglets by means of a nursing bottle and produced 4,000 pounds of pork last March when the little pigs were left motherless on the farm of Mrs. Cora Stetler. She said she had a nursing bottle and had fed the piglets for five weeks. The pigs were fed from the bottle and she placed bags of heated sand around the litter to keep them warm. All the pigs lived and now average 180 to 200 pounds.

Dizzy Trout Halts Bid of the Yanks

Pitches Five-Hit Ball and Clouts Homer to Beat Pennant Seekers

By The Associated Press

New York Yankees muffed a chance to clinch the American League pennant yesterday by dropping a 3-1 decision to Paul Trout of Detroit Tigers, but they will have another chance to go over the top on their own steam today.

The second-place Washington Senators had open dates both yesterday and today, leaving the field clear to the Yankees, who need only one more victory to nail up their seventh flag in eight years.

New York's opponent today again will be Detroit, with Spad Chandler, the Yankees' ace, slated to hurl against Rookie Frank Overmire.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York Yankees' chance to clinch their American League pennant was frustrated by Paul Trout, who pitched five-hit ball and hit a home run to give Detroit Tigers a 3-1 victory.

The Detroit mound star gained his 12th triumph against 11 defeats, engaged in a duel with Rookie Charlie Wenzeloff and for five innings the contest was scoreless.

Then the Yankees broke into the lead in the ninth. Bud Medvey charged Hill Johnson walked and Charles Keller smashed a long single into center for a run.

In the seventh however the Tigers led the score on a double by Joe Wood, a sacrifice, and a single by Rudy York and in the eighth Trout himself decided the contest with a drive into the lower left-field stands.

With Washington, a second-place Senators win until Sunday, the Yankees' next chance to clinch the pennant will be against the Tigers Saturday when Spad Chandler is slated to pitch for New York.

Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox battled 16 innings to a 3-3 tie, the longest struggle being called because of darkness and acting up a double-header Saturday.

Joe Dobson pitched a two-hitter, a Boston Red Sox beat Cleveland 4-0 while Ed Egan, up from Baltimore, held the Sox scoreless until the tenth inning. The lone run of the game came in the tenth when Tom McBride doubled and scored on Tony Lapina, a pulled double over first base.

In the confusion of Michaelmas daffodils, dahlias, chrysanthemums and gladioli that graced the long tables, Miss Bryant was awarded the William Wilson Cup for daffodils with T. Hensman won the E. W. Forward Cup for flowers.

Don Wilson, a consistent exhibitor and auctioneer, won the Bank of Commerce Cup and the W. W. Walker Cup for highest aggregate points in the vegetable class.

The poultry section was somewhat smaller than formerly. However, poultry association enthusiasts, Frank Hunter, John Vollock, E. W. Matson, F. P. Rumble and Rev. C. McDonald, provided a very handsome display of Rhode Island White, Sussex and bantam fowls and other breeds. A few juvenile poultrymen entries added interest in the section.

To Probe Reports Liquor Store Men Not Obeying Rules

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (AP)—An inquiry is to be conducted into reports that liquor store clerks in Vancouver are not obeying orders of the Liquor Control Board regarding purchasing and stamping of individual permits. It was learned here today.

"We have heard these reports from reliable sources and we now believe something is wrong," said W. P. Kesteven, Liquor Control Board chairman. He said the inquiry would be conducted by Vancouver.

ARMY AND AIR FORCE HOCKEY TEAMS MAY PLAY IN OPEN COMPETITION

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 (AP)—Army and R.C.A.F. headquarters announced today that open competition games are kept within certain bounds, army and air force hockey teams are to play in open competition.

Following are the conditions under which service teams may play:

1. In any league obtaining six or more teams, four teams only should participate in play-offs.

2. In a league of less than six teams, not more than three teams should compete in the play-offs.

3. All league and inter-league play-offs are to be kept to a limit of two games out of three.

It was pointed out in the letter to the C.A.H.A. the statement that the R.C.A.F. are to participate in a league in their own right, but that the conditions have been laid down bearing in mind the exigencies of the service.

East Grid Games Set

Important Clashes In Football League

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (AP)—Action is scheduled on three fronts in today's Ontario Rugby Football Union senior programme which matches three teams which won last Saturday's opening games with three losing aggregations.

Most of the interest centres on the clash between Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and Ottawa Combines at Ottawa. The Hurricanes trounced Toronto Navy soundly enough last week, 31-3, but their performance failed to arouse much enthusiasm.

The Combines, who were defeated in their first game, have gained strength during the week and are regarded as formidable foes for the Dominion champions.

In Toronto, the Navy squad is entertaining the powerful Hamilton Wildcats, who clawed their way to a 35-0 triumph over Toronto Indians in their first start. The Wildcats strengthened by the return to action of Halfback Doug Smith who was out a week ago with an ankle injury.

Rule as favorites, but Coach Ted Morris said yesterday his Navy team had improved greatly, and that he had figured out a system to slow down the Hamilton attack if it stop it completely.

The third game is in Hamilton where Toronto Indians meet Toronto Balm Beach. This game was scheduled for Toronto Maple Leaf Stadium next Wednesday night but the date was changed in view of the continuing International Baseball League playoffs between Toronto and Syracuse and uncertainty whether the field would be available.

Beaches probably will be without hard-hitting Ed Jakubowski but the rest of the formidable squad will be in action.

Steel Industry In B.C. Studied

The use of the natural resources of British Columbia as they would be affected by the foundation of steel and plastic industries in this province were discussed at length on Friday by Hon. E. C. Carson, Minister of Mines, and Ald. Jack Price, chairman of the Industries Committee of the Vancouver City Council.

The minister and the chairman met for the second day to deal with the part that British Columbia would play in the steel industry of Canada at the conclusion of the war, and both agreed that it was essential that the industry be implemented in this province in order to deal with the serious problem of post-war rehabilitation.

More concerned with the development of the larger project of the complete industry, than merely with the establishment of a steel rolling mill, was Mr. Carson, who stated that the Province was still pledged to bonus the steel industry itself.

He said it would comprise an outlet for the surplus of raw materials available, particularly iron ore, and would result in considerable employment in mines. He reported that the Federal Government would co-operate with the Province in the production of such a scheme.

E. Robertson, deputy minister, has been in consultation with a number of leaders of industry in Vancouver, although the minister and Ald. Price agreed that it was not good judgment to be making any commitment at this time, as to the future of the industry, which would be determined after the war.

When the steel industry is established, it will be a major factor in the development of the Province, and it is essential that the industry be implemented in this province in order to deal with the serious problem of post-war rehabilitation.

More concerned with the development of the larger project of the complete industry, than merely with the establishment of a steel rolling mill, was Mr. Carson, who stated that the Province was still pledged to bonus the steel industry itself.

He said it would comprise an outlet for the surplus of raw materials available, particularly iron ore, and would result in considerable employment in mines. He reported that the Federal Government would co-operate with the Province in the production of such a scheme.

E. Robertson, deputy minister, has been in consultation with a number of leaders of industry in Vancouver, although the minister and Ald. Price agreed that it was not good judgment to be making any commitment at this time, as to the future of the industry, which would be determined after the war.

When the steel industry is established, it will be a major factor in the development of the Province, and it is essential that the industry be implemented in this province in order to deal with the serious problem of post-war rehabilitation.

Bomb in Stack Of Battleship Killed 1,400

MAHON, Balearic Islands, Sept. 23 (Delayed) (AP)—Survivors of the Italian battleship Roma said today that 1,400 crewmen were killed and some 500 others were burned seriously when a German plane bombed a hit squarely in the vessel's stack.

Italy's newest and largest warship "exploded like a bomb," one survivor said as she sped southward toward Malta shortly after the Italian capitulation.

Escorting cruisers and gunboats rescued about 700 of the survivors, some of whom were landed here and a few others were picked up by launches from the Balearics.

An Italian cruiser and four gunboats were destroyed here and a German U-boat is reported to be keeping a watch from adjacent waters to prevent any break for freedom.

Pays Tribute To Canadians

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 24 (AP)—Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, Australian army commander-in-chief today paid tribute to the Canadian army in a message forwarded to the Canadian Government through the office of the Canadian High Commissioner, Hon. T. C. Davis.

The message referred to Canadian troops sent by the Canadian military attaché, Lt. Col. L. M. Choucri, to Allied military successes in New Guinea.

Gen. Blamey said: "Please accept the congratulations of all Australian forces on the splendid work of Canadian forces in the recent landings in Italy. I trust they may have speeded and complete victory in that theatre of operations. Canadian forces have always been held in the highest regard by our men and it was a great stimulus to know of their participation in such a vital struggle as that now in progress."

DECLAIMED ALIMONY

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 (AP)—Cuyahoga County Clerk Leonard F. Pierst would like to distribute $1,200 in alimony cheques but he says the divorcees are too busy in war plants to claim their cheques. "First the divorcees fight in court to get the alimony, and now they are too busy to claim it," Pierst commented.

What Today Means

LIBRA
If September 25 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p.m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 6:15 a.m. to 8:15 p.m. and from 10:15 p.m. until midnight.

This will be a day when it will be most advisable to watch your p's and q's, for it will take very little to have some simple movement or action misconstrued. If you depend on other people doing things for you today you may discover that no matter how good their intentions are, or how willing they may be, unexpected circumstances will make it difficult or impossible for them to do more than their own share. It will be well to condemn no one today without first finding out if there is not an extenuating excuse for their seeming shortcoming. Married and engaged couples, and those whose early betrothal is a foregone conclusion, will do well to remember that "moderation is the golden string running through the pearl chain of all virtues."

If a woman and September 25 is your birthday, you probably have not the time to appreciate jokes when engaged in doing anything requiring concentration, and this may cause some people to form the erroneous opinion that you are lacking in a sense of humor. A natural amount of dignity is probably reflected in your every move, as well as in the way you express yourself.

The average person is apt to recognize the fact that you know your own mind and that you have no need of assistance when it comes to making it up about anything. Through dramatic, social welfare, political, educational, dietetical, artistic, musical, hospital, secretarial or patriotic work, or through a specialized line of commercial activity, you seem due to meet with a remarkable amount of success. Your matrimonial prospects for the coming year can be regarded as most encouraging.

The child born on September 25 generally develops a marked amount of individuality, a lovable personality and an innate amount of refinement that will prove invaluable aids to its advancement throughout its entire life. Consideration for others is apt to be reflected in both its words and actions. This youngster's future is apt to prove that real merit has its own reward.

If a man and September 25 is your natal day, a variety of experiences may prove to have been preparatory stages necessary to qualify you for the assuming of great responsibilities. Through using your own initiative you ought to meet with a great deal of success, especially if you are an inventor, chemist, manufacturer, builder, contractor, architect, journalist, publisher, author, doctor, lawyer, salesman, business executive, farmer, industrialist, engineer, clergyman, politician, actor, or as a defender of the land you love against her enemies.

To load and discharge her vital cargoes of gasoline, she has berthed in fifteen countries, including Australia, Malaya, India, Ceylon, North Africa, and the United States.

Citizens Warned Little Sawdust Available Here

Sawdust will be a scarce commodity this winter and there will be almost no sawdust available here, the United Citizens Board office warned Saturday.

The office, W. C. McPherson, states that for the next six months sawdust will be cutting approximately 75 per cent hemlock, spruce and cedar, hence very little of the product will be available.

Citizens of Victoria would be well advised to arrange to secure their winter supply of sawdust this year, also be prepared to give hemlock spruce or cedar sawdust if they continue to use their burners.

Mr. McPherson stated that for some time past no one had been issued a permit to purchase sawdust burners, because it was foreseen that a scarcity would occur.

There was something of a surprise, his name had not been prominently mentioned in speculation about Welles' successor.

Commanding Welles' lengthy service in the State Department, Mr. Roosevelt said he had served the government with unflinching devotion.

With reference to Crowley's designation as director of the Office of Foreign Economic Administration, the Chief Executive said he was one of the best administrators in our history of Government, and a great understanding of the world in a position which was centralizing all foreign functions in one operating agency.

Former Governor Herbert Lehman of New York, who has headed the Office of Foreign Affairs and Relations, has been named a special assistant to the President to perform the duties of a United Nations representative, November 9 to 15, to the problem of long-range world relief.

These clothes will soon be seen in Berlin!

WHEN THAT GREAT DAY COMES, when Canadian soldiers, along with the other armies of the United Nations, enter the enemy's cities, the many products of Canadian skill and industry will march with them. For example, thousands of Canadians will be producing uniforms for the British Army.

Because the Department of Munitions and Supply has seen to it that the men of Canada's Armed Forces get the finest of everything, it is natural that Tip Top Tailors is playing a major role in this phase of war production. Uniforms are being produced in our plant by hundreds upon hundreds of skilled workers. The greater part of our entire production, in fact, is devoted to this one purpose: Canadian clothing is still produced for our home front, according to the time schedule of the war.

If you are asked to be indulgent when delivery of your civilian garments, please understand why there might be a little delay. Nothing must hamper the speedy accomplishment of the job assigned to us. We are sure you want a better way.

"I've learned the value of PREPAREDNESS"

ONE sure thing that my training as an Air Raid Warden has taught me is the importance of being prepared. I don't know that enemy bombs will ever drop in my sector. I do know that only preparedness can prevent unnecessary suffering if they do.

"It's a lesson that has made me think. Wartime threats to my home and loved ones will pass. The chance that my family may someday be left to carry on alone will remain. Without something to replace my earnings, they'd be in a tight spot indeed."

"So I've done the only thing a man in my position can do. I had a Life Insurance representative work out a plan, within my means, that would give them a guaranteed monthly income in case I die unexpectedly."

"It's a plan that I can expand as my income increases and that's what I aim to do. I've removed a threat to my loved ones that is just as real as high explosives and incendiaries, and probably far less remote. I'll never be caught without as much Life Insurance as I can afford."

World Day for Animals October 2

The sixteenth World Day for Animals will be celebrated Saturday, October 2, by all members of the Canadian A.V.I. Society. The society is dedicated to the betterment of the world's animals, and every year distributes literature in the hope that "humanity will realize the value of the animal."

The society has chosen the day dedicated to St. Francis of Assisi, noted for his love of birds and animals, and every year distributes literature in the hope that "humanity will realize the value of the animal."

In an article contributed to the Daily Colonist by Rev. L. R. Adams, entitled "How We Can Help Our Animals," the author says that the society is dedicated to the betterment of the world's animals, and every year distributes literature in the hope that "humanity will realize the value of the animal."

A better world for mankind is a better world for animals. We have been asked to consider them and our duties to them. We have been asked to consider them and our duties to them. We have been asked to consider them and our duties to them.

It is our duty to consider them and our duties to them. It is our duty to consider them and our duties to them. It is our duty to consider them and our duties to them.

Allied Air Power Gradually Bringing War Nearer Japan

By PETER MASEFIELD
Special Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—The march of events and of the United Nations in the Mediterranean, the continuous and increasing bombing offensive over Germany, the forward sweep of the Russian armies in the East—all have tended to overshadow operations in the Pacific. Yet fundamental changes—for the better—have taken place on this wide war front, the full significance of which is only just beginning to show.

Japanese offensive strategy appears now to be based on the theory that the Pacific war will be decided by the air. The Japanese have been building up their air power in the Pacific, and their primary mission is to bring about a decisive air battle. The Japanese have been building up their air power in the Pacific, and their primary mission is to bring about a decisive air battle.

As everyone knows, Japan began the war in the Pacific with undisputed air superiority which in the early days of the war was used to attack the United States Navy. At that time we have large forces opposed to the Japanese. We are more than able to meet the true worth of the Japanese.

The fact is that although the Japanese have the advantage in the air, they are not as good as they are in the air. The Japanese have the advantage in the air, but they are not as good as they are in the air. The Japanese have the advantage in the air, but they are not as good as they are in the air.

AIR WAR HAS TWO OFFENSIVE ASPECTS

Air war in the Pacific now that the Allies have the initiative, has two offensive aspects apart from the day and night fighter defenses of the bases for attack. The two aspects are naval and military or more properly sea-going and land-based.

There was a place for naval aircraft in the Pacific. Its wide waters are now perhaps the only place in the world for the use of aircraft carriers in fleet actions as opposed to their complementary and very important function as guardians of supply routes as in the Atlantic.

In the Pacific, the use of the carrier as a base for offensive operations is now being developed. The carrier is now being developed as a base for offensive operations. The carrier is now being developed as a base for offensive operations.

Winnie Back Home Again After Conference

Back from his history-making tour, which included war planning conferences with President Roosevelt in Canada and the United States, Prime Minister Winston Churchill is pictured as he arrived back in England and Mrs. Anthony Eden, wife of his Foreign Secretary, and Sir Archibald Sinclair welcome him upon arrival in London, England.

advance on anything which has gone before them. The Grumman Avenger has proved its worth as a torpedo bomber, while the revised version of the Curtiss Helldiver appears to have overcome its earlier troubles and to have developed into the formidable naval dive bomber of which it appears a promise. And although on land the dive bomber has few quarters to room, it is today at sea it is a more useful weapon. Partly due to the lack of the dive bomber, the Japanese have been unable to bring about a decisive air battle.

Loss of Sulphur Supply Stunning Blow to Nazis

NEW YORK—When the United Nations knocked Sicily out of the war and invaded Italy they hit

at the foundation of Ger-

Sulphur dioxide bleaches the pulp or paper for letters, newspapers, books and magazines. It aids in oil refining. Sulphur alone or combined is used in the manufacture of tires and other rubber goods—both synthetic and natural. It is a vital component of various insecticides and fungicides. Without sulphur there would be no sulfa drugs to guard and save lives, nor powder with which to fight.

Over There
it's a question in every man's mind

Over Here
people are looking for the answer

Industry is helping win the war...
industry must help build a peacetime world
After the war is decisively won... what kind of world is essential for a just and durable peace?

This question is being asked today everywhere in the world. No expert is needed to tell you the answer. It must be a world as peaceful and neighbourly as your own town, a world in which decent people can bring up their children decently. It must be a busy world where factories and farms are working and where there are jobs for all.

How can such a world be brought into being? The surest way is to think and talk about it. Full and complete discussions on the porches of this country, over its fences, in churches, schools, clubs, and always at meals—that is how the terms of a JUST AND DURABLE PEACE can be formulated.

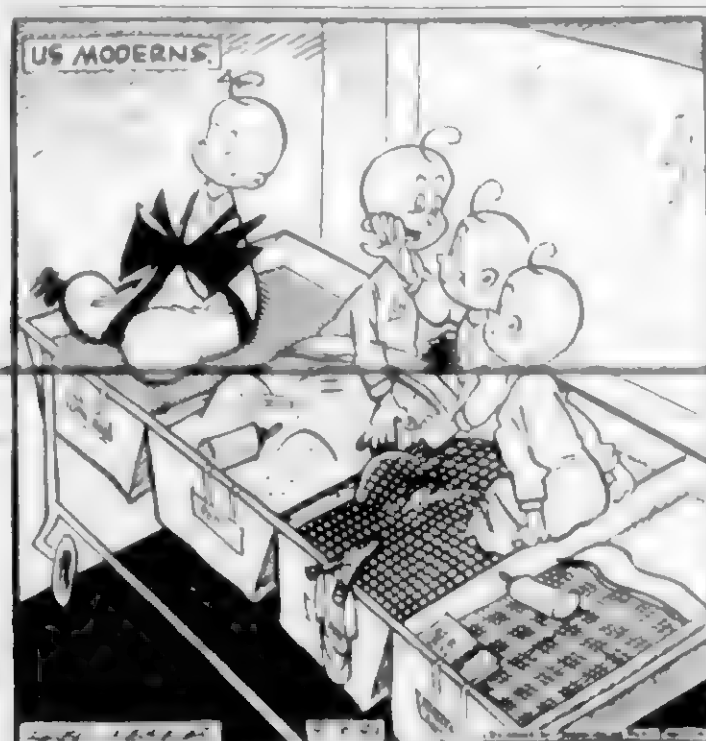

In your discussions keep in mind this fact, your terms of peace must be such that the people of other lands can agree with them. There must be provision in your plans for sustained production and for consumption of that production.

Only a world peace that squares with the conscience of men of good will can be just. Only a just peace can endure.

Army Sergeant Writes Santa From New Guinea

By a Staff Correspondent
North American Newspaper Alliance
NEW YORK—Down in the steamy jungles of New Guinea an army sergeant, is confidently expecting Santa Claus to pay him a visit this coming Christmas.

"This sergeant—and all his fellow soldiers—will be disappointed unless the people back home remember to mail Christmas gifts to soldiers overseas not later than October 15."

Here is a letter written to Santa Claus by the sergeant. As it was received by the War Department:

"Somewhere in New Guinea, August 23, 1943.
"Dear Santa Claus—Please note the above address. Last year you had quite a time finding me, but if you will trade in your reindeer for a team of kangaroos or a couple of fuzzy-wuzzy porters, you should have no excuse for being late again. And let me tell you that I am expecting you.

"I have been a very good boy. I haven't been out with girls, and I haven't wasted my time in pool halls or road-houses. I haven't over-eaten. I have practiced that homey virtue, economy; that is, I have bought very little food. Aside from bananas and pineapples, I have done my own housework, including laundry, most of the time.

"In view of my impeccable—even if unusual—decorum, I believe that I am wholly justified in inviting your attention to the following items (I understand there is a war in progress, and I have therefore cut my requisition to a mere token list):
"1. Photos of the old folks and young folks at home.
"2. Some books.
"3. Some handkerchiefs, preferably of the sun-tan-handana style.
"4. A few cans of talcum powder.
"5. Some un-popped popcorn.
"6. And, without taking anybody's ration points, a can or two of choice sardines, peanuts, puddings and other luxuries.

"Please give my kindest regards to Mrs. Claus and to any other Claus which provides for compliance with above request. I am, Sir, "Your good little boy," Harry.

"P.S.—If you have, at long last, become air-minded and decide to come here by plane, be sure to make proper provision for identification. I shall have the tent pole properly greased for your descent in traditional style and a GI sock properly hung."

ROOSTER'S SLEEP FATAL
HARRISON, Ark., Sept. 25 (AP)—Aubie Pruitt's rooster won't oversleep again. Pruitt arose before daybreak, drove 100 miles here from his Ozarks home and was greeted by the crow of his own rooster. The fowl was perched on the truck's axle where he'd roosted the night before. Pruitt sold him to a produce dealer.

Flame-Proofed Fabrics Aid for Saving Lives

By RUTH MILLER
North American Newspaper Alliance

Today, American women by the thousands are wearing flame-proofed clothing for the first time in their lives.

In war plants, factories and shipyards, war workers are protected from flame and flying sparks by gloves, aprons, coveralls, helmets, shields and headgear which have been treated with a fire-retardant chemical.

Fires which take the greatest toll of lives are frequently the ones which start and feed on fabrics and furnishings in the home and on the flimsy decorations in places where crowds gather, such as theatres, night clubs and restaurants. Today those fires need never happen.

The chemical that makes this statement possible is ammonium sulfamate, a derivative of sulfamic acid. Ammonium sulfamate is not to be confused with ammonium sulfate, a fertilizer.

Until 1938, sulfamic acid was what chemists call "a laboratory curiosity." A Swedish chemist named Bergius put it together sixty-seven years ago. But the cost of manufacture was found to be prohibitive and nothing could be done about it until five years ago.

Then the manufacturing bottleneck was broken at the experimental station of the Du Pont Company in Wilmington, Del., through the development of a new and improved process for making the chemical. After that, production was by the ton and the supply couldn't keep up with the demand. And it still cannot.

Among the classic qualities set down in the book of rules as desirable in a flameproofing treatment for textiles are those which distinguish ammonium sulfamate. The new chemical does not affect the texture, appearance or color of a fabric. It is stable, non-irritant, and renders fabrics incapable of supporting fire until washed, when the treatment must be repeated.

Touch a match or any flame to a curtain, a chiffon dress, baby's play suit, or a feather bonnet which has been treated with ammonium sulfamate and while it will char, it will not blaze.

The greater part of the chemical now being produced has been taken over by the war industries which use it in flameproofing workers' clothing. But eventually bed linen, blankets, draperies, rugs and wearing apparel may be put through the fire-retardant treatment by dry cleaners and laundries whenever their customers request it. Certain textile finishing plants have begun to flameproof fabrics as a part of the manufacturing process.

When it is again available the chemical may be used in home laundering provided the housewife follows the printed instructions, with almost as much ease as grandmother's bluing.

There is no restriction for the time being on the chemical. However, one of its basic materials is vital to the things of war. Therefore, about all the home front can do about the fire hazards for the duration is to keep matches away from the baby, the glowing ember off the hearth rug, the blowing curtain away from the gas stove or candle flame, and not forget that lighted cigarette!

What Today Means

LIBRA

If September 26 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., from 8:30 to 8:30 p.m. and from 10:30 p.m. until midnight.

This might be a good day to leave things more or less in the hands of Fate, for regardless of what planning you may do it will be the course of natural events that will determine whether they will or will not be carried out. The least opposition you put up to the wishes of other people the better off you will be today. Let the recollections of your own youth inspire your decisions should you have occasion to make any for today's younger generation. Let your sense of justice, rather than prejudice, prevail in your dealings with people inside and out of your home today, if you wish to avoid any kind of complication. Married and engaged couples, and those anticipating a matrimonial future together, must be "gentle of speech, beneficent of mind" if it is their desire to make this a thoroughly delightful Sunday.

If a woman and September 26 is your birthday, through your exhibiting at all times a co-operative spirit you will gain many advantages and make innumerable friends. The spirit of optimism, like sunshine, can brighten many lives, so radiate it if you wish to reap many a worthwhile reward. You may have to school yourself to remember faces and names, but it will be worth your while to do so. If you will only bear in mind that "a man's a man for a' that," and that "man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn" you may find it in your power to alleviate much suffering, or help to correct some existing wrongs. As a missionary, trained nurse, doctor, psychiatrist, writer, lecturer, social welfare worker, dietitian, business manager, broker, factory or government employee, your opportunities to do excellent work will win suitable rewards and a worthwhile reputation. The greater your matrimonial expectations the better it will be for there are many indications that worthy ones will be realized.

The child born on September 26 can be counted upon to face the stern realities of life courageously and successfully. A love for adventure may have a decided influence on this youngster's life and lead later on to its doing a great deal of traveling. Water should have a strong attraction for Libra's youngsters, so too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of their learning how to swim while still quite young.

If a man and September 26 is your natal day, it may be easier for you to make than it is for you to save money, despite the fact it is important—that you should. You should eat discreetly and display a great deal of discrimination in the selection of your food. Your activity as a dentist, pharmacist, physician, jurist, architect, contractor, publisher, journalist, author, actor, singer, musician, business executive, manufacturer, inventor, sales manager, or through your participation in military operations, should enable you to make an enviable record and reputation.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 27
LIBRA

If September 27 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 to 10:45 a.m., from 12:45 to 2:45 p.m. and from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m., from 4:45 to 6:45 p.m. and from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m.

Today it is important that you remember "it is always right that a man should be able to render a reason for the faith that is within him," and that it is decidedly wrong to profess believing anything that has not been given the most serious consideration. Free advice may prove costly today if it is handed out by anyone not thoroughly qualified to give it. This should be an auspicious day for putting into effect new ideas, rules, or regulations, and for the starting of any new kind of activity. Conditions appear to be conducive for people of opposite natures to be attracted to each other and this is apt to result in many new friendships being formed. Sentiment rather than logic will probably govern the average person's actions, and throw them wide open to a good deal of criticism. Married and engaged couples, and those discussing matrimonial possibilities, might be helped if they will remember that "hate and mistrust are the children of blindness," and it never helps but handicaps those who indulge in either of them.

If a woman and September 27 is your birthday you may find that this "is a world of startling possibilities" for one possessing your breadth of understanding, capacity for organization and ability to do consistently good work. You are probably never satisfied unless you are busy planning future activities not only for yourself but also for those you are deeply interested in. You should give considerable thought to your color schemes, for you ought to react favorably to very bright colors, particularly queen still would be "outstanding in East's hand for a good trick. Moreover, since declarer now had at least one club trick in dummy which he always could use for a diamond discard, the best chance of making an overtrick was to ruff with the heart 10 and hope that West would be unable to stop it. The 10 spot, however, was overruled by West with the queen—and a heart was returned. The ace, king and jack of hearts were cashed and declarer then led a low diamond to his ace. Next, he carefully cashed his own last trump, discarding a spade from dummy.

"As will be seen, this play made matters uncomfortable for the declarer. A low spade now was led to the queen; the ace was cashed, and then the club queen provided a discard for South's six of diamonds. The club queen also gave West a severe headache. In order to play to this trick, he had to let go his spade stopper or his diamond king, either of which would be fatal. Since there was a chance that declarer did not have four spades, West naturally and correctly chose to let go a spade, but now declarer's king and 10 of spades became perfectly good for the fulfilling tricks."

No comment is needed except that declarer played perfectly and deserved his success.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♥ Pass Pass Pass
"West opened the club 10, dummy covered with the jack and East won with the king. Now, since the lead looked like a doubleton (to both East and declarer) the club ace was cashed and a low club was led to the third trick. Declarer would have discarded a diamond, but was afraid that West might be able to ruff with a low trump and that the heart
